The War
Today...By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

AS WE WAIT the break of D-day it is natural that one of the burning questions should be how long it will take the Allied war machine after it has hit top speed, to grind out this final phase of the European war and administer the coup de grace to Hitler.

The first point we must log down in examining this undoubtedly is that we are facing a terrific struggle. We should be foolish not to recognize that.

Having acknowledged this, it's legitimate to note that many observers incline to the theory that once the invading forces have overcome the terrible initial hazards and have established themselves, the Hitlerites will be about ready to accept the inevitable and surrender. This idea is based on the belief that the Nazis will quit short of allowing the fight to be carried onto German territory.

Along this line, Dr. Norman R. F. Maier, University of Michigan psychologist who forecast the Munich failure, now predicts that the German people will liquidate Hitler as soon as it's demonstrated that the Allied invasion is a success. Dr. Maier says revolution is brewing in Germany and that nothing can save the Fuehrer when the fiction of the invincibility of Fortress Europe is blasted.

Speculation over the prospects of Nazi surrender would be dangerous if we didn't at the same time recognize the certainty that the invasion of Western Europe is going to produce one of the bloodiest battles of history. The only thing which will force a collapse of the enemy will be conviction that there is absolutely no hope of gaining more favorable terms by hanging on.

The Prussian militarists, who are among the world's best soldiers, know that they already are beaten. They're making a long-shot gamble that by protracting the conflict they can weaken Allied determination and thereby secure better terms.

THE HITLERITES are going to fight invasion with everything they have—and that represents tremendous striking power, although it's far from what it once was. And we shouldn't treat lightly the German claim that they have devastating secret weapons, for they may have.

Hitler's army is generally figured to total about 3,000,000, which is a formidable force. However, the fact remains that the German Reichswehr, big as it is, just isn't strong enough to cope with the Allied armies. The Russians alone

CALAIS AREA ATTACKED BY
U. S. BOMBERSGerman Planes Hit English
Coast; Brenner Pass
Is Hit Hard

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, May 15.—American Flying Fortresses and Liberators attacked German invasion defenses in the Pas De Calais area nearest Britain today in the 31st consecutive day of the great aerial offensive, after a night in which German bombers sharply attacked the British coast.

No American bomber was lost today but one of the accompanying Mustangs was missing. It fell to anti-aircraft fire since the U. S. communiqué said no German plane was sighted.

A maximum of 250 Fortresses and Liberators under protection of Eighth Air Force Mustangs pounded military installations in France, following up a night attack on Cologne by British Mosquito bombers, and a weekend of activity which saw the historic Brenner pass, main supply line for the Nazis in Italy, virtually sealed up.

The Berlin radio asserted German raiders had made "fierce attacks" on the port of Bristol last night and declared that large quantities of high explosives and incendiaries were dropped. A British announcement that at least 15 of the raiders were shot down indicating the Nazis may have struck with as many as 300 planes.

Casualties Small
The British said the raids had caused some damage and a small number of casualties "over wide areas of south and southwest England."

The RAF stab at Cologne was carried out in conjunction with raids on unspecified objectives in France and the low countries and minelaying.

In addition to the heavy bombers which participated in today's daylight operations, waves of American Marauder medium bombers also were observed heading for northern France.

A central German radio blackout suggested the planes might be penetrating into the heart of the Reich. The blow at the Brenner pass, accomplished by Italy-based American Flying Fortresses Saturday, was followed up by a 1,000-plane assault yesterday on German-held airfields.

Strafing Mitchell's bagged two parked bombers. Smoke boiled and rail yards in northern Italy rounded out a solid month of found-the-clock attacks by Allied

Former Lisbon Boy
Victim of Air Crash

Petty Officer 3/c Joseph H. Tucker, 19, formerly of Lisbon, was killed Friday afternoon in an air-plane accident near Jacksonville, Fla., according to word received Saturday by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Tucker of Pittsburgh.

The accident occurred Friday during a routine training flight that was part of the advanced training in air gunnery. He enlisted in the Naval Air Corps a year ago, while a senior in David Anderson High school, and had graduated six weeks ago with honors among a class of 160 gunners at Jacksonville. His parents received a telegram from the commanding officer at Jacksonville notifying them of the mishap and praising the excellent work and skill of their son.

The body was returned with military escort to Lisbon yesterday and rites will be held tomorrow afternoon. Burial will be in the Lisbon cemetery.

Friends may call tonight at the Ellis funeral home. Tucker was born in Lisbon, April 9, 1925. Surviving besides his parents are two brothers, Sgt. William, with the Air Corps in England, Pvt. Robert, stationed at Camp Stewart, Ga.; three sisters, Mrs. James Pennette of Pittsburgh, Evelyn and Leanne, of Pittsburgh.

Red Cross Needs Women
To Make 1,440 Kit Bags

Red Cross sewing rooms will reopen Wednesday on a three-day-a-week schedule to begin work on 1,440 new Army kit bags which the local chapter has been asked to make and fill. The rooms will be open all day Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays. Many additional workers are needed, Mrs. James Atchison, production chairman, said today. Anyone interested in the work should contact the chapter office for further information.

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, May 15.—The senate rejected today a debate-limiting cloture petition which would have halted a southern Democratic filibuster against the anti-poll tax bill. The action indicated the measure will be shelved.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 15.—The State Supreme court today upheld two lower courts which had refused to dismiss a paternity suit brought against comedian Charlie Chaplin in the name of the baby of Joan Berry, his former protegee.

OKLAHOMA AT
POLLS TODAYCalifornia Dems Expected
To Pick Fourth Term
Delegates TuesdayBy JACK BELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

With Oklahoma Democrats leading off today in the expected selection of 22 convention delegates favoring a fourth term, voters in California and New Jersey primaries will put the final seal of approval tomorrow on a first ballot nomination for President Roosevelt.

Delaware and Montana Democrats will name small delegations tomorrow which leaders predict will be for the President. The state committee has recommended that Delaware's votes be instructed for a fourth term and Montana leaders predict the same procedure for that state's 10 votes.

Washington added 18 to the Roosevelt column over the weekend and by Tuesday its total is due to stand at 677 delegate votes pledged and claimed, as against 589 needed to nominate.

In the California primaries, a 52-vote slate favoring the renomination of Mr. Roosevelt and of Vice President Wallace will be chosen. Republicans will pick 50 delegates nominally pledged to Gov. Earl Warren, the GOP convention keynote, as a favorite son.

New Jersey Democrats will elect delegates to cast 34 votes, with a fourth term slate selected by Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City and his aides opposed by only four unpledged district delegate candidates.

New Jersey Republicans will elect 35 delegates, with party leaders backing an unopposed group that is opposed by 18 candidates openly favoring the nomination of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York. Gov. Walter E. Edge said the unpledged slate would "push" for Dewey's nomination.

Montana Republican leaders also favor an unopposed delegation of eight from that state, with Dewey and Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio showing strength among the candidates.

California's primary nominations from the senate seat now held by Democrat Sheridan Downey and for 23 members of the house of representatives may give some line or the relative strength of the two major parties in that state.

Two Unhurt When
Plane Comes Down

Forced to land his Navy plane in a field of mud, one-half mile east of East Palestine, late Saturday afternoon because of the severe electrical storm that swept the district, Arthur Domosky, 26, of Akron, a test pilot, was uninjured when the ship nosed over and damaged the propeller.

An unidentified companion also escaped injury. The plane later was transported by truck back to Akron.

The ship was forced down near the Ohio-Pennsylvania state line, east of Palestine.

Wind Carries Man Out
Of Home, Causes Death

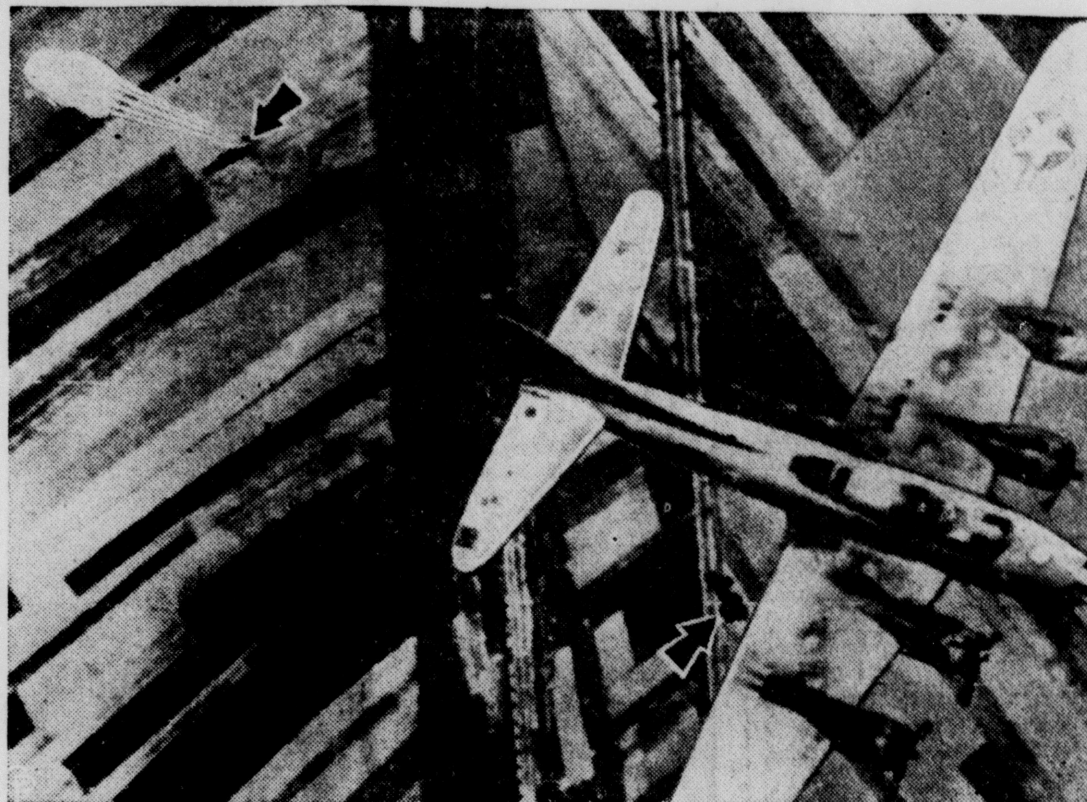

CHILLICOTHE, May 15.—James Orville Sickles, 58, died of a hemorrhage here yesterday after being blown from his home by a strong wind Saturday afternoon.

Sickles, a retired Baltimore & Ohio railroad car man, opened the front door of his home Saturday to get the daily paper, when the heavy wind, sweeping through the house, blew the door off its hinges and carried the door and the man out in the yard.

Sickles is survived by four sons in the service, one of whom is Neel Sickles, former Associated Press cartoonist now on duty in the navy at Washington.

THIS SPECTACULAR PHOTO was made from a U. S. bomber over Wiener Neustadt, Austria, as members (arrows) of a Flying Fortress "hit the silk" after the craft had been struck by flak. Some seconds later, after the rest of the crew took to their parachutes, the stricken bomber fell earthward and crashed in flames. This is a Signal Corps radiophoto.

Your Gifts Can Cheer Invalid
Soldiers In Army Hospitals

Salem chapter of the Red Cross has received an appeal from Camp Reynolds, Greenville, Pa., and Deshon General hospital in Butler, Pa., for mouth organs for convalescent servicemen at the two institutions.

Other musical instruments are needed badly, as are yamps for needlepoint, leather for making belts, purses bags and pocketbooks, and other materials for recreational purposes. Such articles are called "recreational" but in nearly every case the occupation they give works its particular benefit on the men.

Miss Hazel Linn, executive secretary, and a group of Salem and Damascus people visited the Deshon hospital recently, where they saw the use to which the gifts of this community have been put.

RED ARMIES MASS
FOR NEW ATTACKS

(By Associated Press)
MOSCOW, May 15.—Russian armies are believed massing for summer offensive surpassing any blow yet struck on the eastern front.

The spring lull which started in mid-April continued today and no fresh military dispatches were published from the front.

But there were multiplying signs of the coming push. Russian bombers, for instance, struck at the rail center of Brest Litovsk (in old Poland) starting 30 fires, and also attacked Nazi bases at Polotsk in White Russia and Narva in the Estonian republic.

Pravda reported a new Yak fighter plane was going into mass production. This is a modified version of the craft designed by Gen. Alexander Yakovlev, the fastest on the Russian front.

Recent visitors to several sections of the front said they saw intense activity indicating the drive was fairly imminent. Details could not be published, but preparations were described as immense.

It is assumed in Moscow that the offensive will be opened in unison with the allied invasion of Europe in accordance with decisions taken at Teheran by Marshal Stalin, President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

Rev. Brownlee of Lisbon
Will Train as Chaplain

LISBON, May 15.—Rev. Joseph T. Brownlee, pastor of the United Presbyterian church, will leave here June 8 to enter the school for army chaplains at Harvard university in preparation for service with the armed forces.

Rev. Brownlee has been pastor of the church since Nov. 1, 1942, when he replaced Rev. J. M. Cameron, who resigned. He asked leave of absence in July, 1943, and has been awaiting a call for training since that time. At the completion of his training he will be commissioned a first lieutenant and will be assigned to active duty.

who made the trip with the Red Cross official took nearly 20 pounds of homemade candies for the men at the hospital. Salem committee members who went took small gifts appropriately wrapped which the hospital staff uses for birthday gifts for the men, for prizes in games and contests.

Soldiers Keep Busy

The group saw one soldier, recuperating from battle injuries, picking out a melody on an xylophone, composing as he played, and carefully noting the music on a pad beside the instrument. Others were working on model planes, from sets sent by some chapter or individual.

Many were doing needlepoint, some workingigsaw puzzles, others doing outstanding charcoal sketches.

On a previous trip to the hospital workers took a large quantity of leathers of various kinds, a gift from the Bodendorf shop, which will be made into belts and other gifts.

Among the many articles contributed by groups, individuals or clubs here are greeting cards—new greeting cards which the men can send to their families on holidays or special events. Hundreds of small items which are easily procurable for the ordinary person, are unobtainable for the men who must spend all or most of their time in the hospital, have been sent through the Red Cross chapters.

The hospital receives comparatively few flowers, however, workers report, in spite of the fact that the men are exceedingly anxious to get them. Hospital staff members

Chinese Capture
Burmese Village

(By Associated Press)

SOUTHEAST ASIA HEADQUARTERS, Kandy, Ceylon, May 15.—Chinese troops have captured Tarungyang, 11 miles north of Kamaing, and Burmese fighting for the Allies have raided Tangpu, only 28 miles north of Myitkina, in the closest strike to that main Japanese base in northern Burma, Allied headquarters announced today.

Kamaing is the immediate objective of Lt.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's pre-Monsoon offensive. The Chinese troops, driving down the Mogaung valley, joined forces with Allied units at Manpin, a mile south of Tarungyang, the communique disclosed.

It gave no details of the Tangpu raid.

The communique announcing this success also declared mopping up operations are proceeding southwest of Kohima in the frontier region of northeast India, where the Japanese invaders have been reported regrouping in strength.

Sixty-five miles below Kohima, the bulletin said, the British are pushing on steadily against the enemy southwest of Imphal, where a communique yesterday reported Allied troops had driven into Pot-sangbam. Heavy enemy artillery fire was reported in the Palel region but an expected enemy attack in that area failed to develop.

BOMBS CRASH
IN NEW GUINEA

Wadke Island Section Undergoes Heaviest Attack Since Hollandia

(By Associated Press)

ADVANCED ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, May 15.—The heaviest bombing since the pre-invasion softening of Hollandia was reported today as one of six separate assaults designed to immobilize the last remnants of Japanese air power in New Guinea.

Big Liberators and tree-skimming Mitchells dumped 334 tons Saturday on Wadke Island and the Mafin bay coastline to Sarni, 20 miles southwest on the Dutch New Guinea mainland.

The airdrome runway at Wadke, 120 miles toward the Philippines from captured Hollandia, took 200,000 6,000 feet from fired installations.

It was the heaviest concentration of bombs delivered by Gen. Douglas MacArthur's airmen since Hollandia was blasted by 400 tons three weeks before the invasion April 22. Other Liberators ranged more than 300 miles farther, pressing the drive to clear enemy aviation from Northwestern New Guinea, where the Japanese were reported 10 days ago bringing in expert naval forces to bolster their dwindling strength.

The Schouten islands in the mouth of Geelvink bay were hammered for the 10th straight day and nearby Noemfoor island was hit. It was the second day in a row the Schoutens had been under double-barreled attack—day and night.

MacArthur revealed for the first time Dauntless dive-bomber pilots rocketed guns attached to the Allied wings to help destroy 40 Japanese barges at Rabaul, New Britain. Barges are about the last remaining hope of reinforcement or evacuation for the isolated Rabaul garrison.

Central Pacific based planes harassed outflanked Japanese troops in the eastern Marshall islands and struck at the phosphate-producing island of Nauru far the southwest.

Missing Leetonia
Boy Is Prisoner

Missing in action since March 19, Staff Sgt. Lynn M. Ripley, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ripley of Wadell st., Leetonia, is now listed as a prisoner of war in Germany, according to a message received Saturday afternoon through the International Red Cross.

Sgt. Ripley, an engineer-gunner, was reported missing in action after a flight over Europe on March 19. His parents were notified April 13 and hadn't received any word since that time.

Sgt. Ripley enlisted in the air force Nov. 11, 1942. He was sent to Italy in December, 1943, and was stationed there at the time he was reported missing. The crew of which he was a member had made about a dozen or more flights over the continent before their plane presumably was shot down.

Breach Made
In Nazi Line
As Allies Gain

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, May 15.—French troops have advanced as much as seven miles from the take-off point on the Fifth army right wing in the all-out Allied offensive and captured the important town of Ausonia, creating a "significant breach" in the Germans' Gustav line in southern Italy. Allied headquarters announced today.

The Americans have smashed the enemy out of Santa Maria Infante and San Pietro on the lower Garigliano river front and taken vital mountain positions on both sides of the Ausente river.

The French have reached the hills dominating San Giorgio, equally as important as Ausonia.

The Americans are pressing an attack on Spigno, showing they have driven at least four miles north and west of Minturno.

Ausonia is six and a half miles north of Minturno and San Giorgio seven miles southwest of Cassino and one mile south of the Liri river.

Farther to the north, the big Allied offensive also gained, with the British and Indians deepening their Rapido river bridgehead to at least 2,000 yards—more than a mile—and sending over great numbers of tanks to exploit this attack into the Liri valley, a direct road to Rome.

More than 2,000 prisoners already have streamed back into Allied cages and others were coming in constantly as the attacks progressed.

Very heavy casualties have been inflicted along the whole front and hard fighting continues everywhere up and down the line of attack, an Allied communique said.

The German 71st division, which was reconstructed after its original was wiped out at Stalingrad, bore the brunt of the Fifth army attack and lost over 1,200 men in prisoners alone, including six battalion commanders.

Upset Nazi Defenses
The whole frontline defenses of this division have been overturned.

After a bitter and bloody fight the Americans drove the Nazis out of the town of Santa Maria Infante at noon yesterday, pushed on to a road junction northeast of the town and fanned out to capture the village of San Pietro and the nearby hills, Monte Cerri and Monte Bracchi on either side of the Ausente river. Then they continued the attack on Spigno.

The French in the upper Garigliano area approached the Liri river in the vicinity of San Gorgio after occupying a number of dominating heights. Ausonia, in the valley connecting the Liri valley with the sea, fell yesterday afternoon.

In quick succession the embattled French won 2,500-foot Colle Rinchiuso and 1,900-foot Colle Agri-foglio and occupied the towns of San Andrea and San Ambrogio and mopped up San Appollinare.

Subsequently the troops of Gen. Alphonse Juin routed the Germans from the 1,400-foot Colle Castellone, highest feature overlooking San Gorgio and Voile Cantelupo, which overlooks the Lira valley and flanks enemy positions in the valley.

OPA Gives Rinehart
Partial Suspension

The Lincoln Market, 665 E. State st., was given a 15-day suspension, effective May 29, from dealing in processed foods, canned fish, canned meat, canned milk and rationed fats and oils, in an order issued today by Frederic S. Glover, Jr., of Cleveland, chief hearing commissioner of the Office of Price Administration.

The store, which Omar Rinehart is president and manager, was charged by OPA enforcement officials with selling and offering for sale many rationed items at over-ceiling prices. According to OPA, Rinehart admitted selling canned baby foods, canned vegetables and fruits and other articles at from one to eight cents above ceiling prices.

The order issued today resulted from a hearing given Rinehart May 1 in Cleveland.

PLAYERS TO PICK
MELODRAMA CAST

Rehearsals will get under way later this week on the old-time melodrama, "Dirty Work At The Crossroads," which will be the last production of the season by the Salem Players club.

The complete cast for the play is expected to be chosen Tuesday evening at a meeting in the club rooms. The technical and business staffs for the production also will be chosen this week.

In addition to the discussion of plans for the play itself, several other important items of business are due to come before the club for action Tuesday evening and a full attendance of the membership is expected.

DRESS REHEARSAL

The new and powerful offensive in Italy is dress rehearsal for the big show which may start at any hour. It is the preview of allied might as revised to incorporate lessons learned in the earlier campaigning against the Germans below Rome.

Experiences at Salerno, at Cassino and at Anzio were costly but they taught the British and American commanders many things about modern war and especially of the capabilities and the shortcomings of bombardment from land and from the air in blasting a path for the infantryman who gains the final victory.

They learned at Cassino, for example, that bombing may defeat its own purpose by causing such a tangle of ruin that mechanized units are blocked by the effectiveness of their own supporting arms. At Anzio they learned that while an army on the offensive stops to consolidate its gains, the defensive enemy is given valuable time to strengthen its own position.

Success of early phases of the renewed drive indicates that strategy has been amended to overcome the shortcomings of the earlier plans.

The Italian campaign is important for its own results. Success will relieve pressure on an allied army of considerable size, will reduce the enemy strength and will give bases nearer to Germany and open the way for assault through the Balkans if that is included in the grand strategy. It is equally as important in upsetting the nerves of the enemy to whom there is always the possibility that this may be the main show after all.

CHINA'S HOUR OF CRISIS

Blackest spot in the entire war picture today is China where the Japanese seem to have launched a major campaign in an effort to knock war-weary China out of the war. They are meeting with success which produces a grave situation.

The Chinese have been fighting longer than any other of the United Nations and against odds which might have defeated any other people. Suffering always from lack of modern arms, shortage of food, almost total lack of air support, facing inflation at home and with only uncertain liaison between the forces of Chiang Kai Shek and the important Communist army, they have done well but the military odds have always been against them.

Their allies, and especially the United States, have recognized the importance of China in the general war picture and the urgency of aid to the Chinese armies but the obstacles have been almost unsurmountable and there is grave question whether help can be brought in time to do any real good.

Military experts are agreed that air bases in China are essential to the most effective and the quickest way of defeating Japan. Should the enemy overrun the most of China, as now seems possible, the road to Tokyo will be longer and more costly.

Chiang Kai Shek has had assurance of goodwill and moral support during all of his long struggle but that is not enough. Planes and guns and tanks are his need for words have never stopped a Japanese army. Unless some way can be found for getting these supplies to him, the task of the allied armies and navies will be multiplied and months or even years may be added to the length of the war.

THEY KNOW WHERE THEY STAND

If the latest pronouncement of selective service means what it seems to say, every man will know about where he stands in relations to the draft. It is the most clearcut statement of policy to come out of Washington in relation to army calls since the selective service act became operative.

It says in effect that men between the ages of 18 and 26 can prepare to put on a uniform, that those between 26 and 30 are reasonably secure in their present employment if they can show that they are essential jobs necessary to war supporting activities and that men past 30 years of age are fairly sure to be left undisturbed if they are working at almost any kind of a useful job.

The amount of time and efficiency which has been lost because men did not know how to plan their future and the amount of worry which has been caused prospective draftees and their families in the past cannot be estimated. Hundreds of thousands have been unable to map the program of their private lives because they did not know when the draft board would reach out for them.

The new order will dispel much of this uncertainty. Men who know they are to stay on their jobs will be better workers and men under 26 will know that they better get their affairs in shape for their turn in the armed forces. Of course, selective service has demonstrated an all too frequent readiness to change rulings and interpretations. It looks, however, as if this one may stick.

WAR INSIDE GERMANY

One of the crucial battles of the war has been going on for weeks inside Germany. It is the campaign of Allied bombs against the Nazi secret and military police with the morale of the German people as the prize.

Germany is sick of war which has devastated most of the cities and killed hundreds of thousands of its citizens. Neutral observers bring out convincing evidence of this war-weariness which grows daily as the people see more proof that Hitler has no defense against this terror from the skies.

Terroristic methods of the gestapo hold the civilian population in line but their task becomes more difficult with each raid. If it reaches the point where devastation by day and by night becomes worse than the threat of the guns of Hitler's police, the war may quite possibly be ended inside the reich by the German people themselves.

Use the stimulated energies and substantial resources and background and all may be of enduring benefit.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it may look for a year of rather definite achievements, with solid returns for efforts well directed and resources and energies shrewdly utilized, in the face of a sudden disrupting or devastating combination of circumstances. Making changes, new plans or seeking fresh objectives should be done with sagacity. A concentrated marshalling of the forces, energies and resources should bring enduring and worthwhile results built upon solid foundations. In private affairs there may be surprising turns to romance or to happiness, but be discreet, and avoid all forms of extravagance, or eccentricities.

A child born on this day should have many solid traits of character and practical ability, with energy and creative power. It will be kindly and congenial.

The characteristic mood of the returned soldier is one of bitterness, resentment, and disillusionment. The veteran knows he has been sacrificed in the national interest and that the nation will never return to him what it has taken from him.—Sociology Prof. Willard Waller of Barnard college.

The big occasion that lies in the immediate future is D-day—and none of us know when that day will come. Only the high ranking officers hold the secret.

Here is one drastic person who says that a Republican victory this year would be a calamity. It couldn't be worse than the calamity through which we're passing now.

An aviation authority is quoted as saying: "It may be ten years after the war before helicopters will be available for everyone." That's all right; we'll not be able to pay for ours before that time.

Do you remember the slogan: "You can't do business with Hitler." Well, General Eisenhower is going to find out about it.

The Montgomery Ward plant has been released by the government. However, the stigma attached to the action on the part of the government still stands.

Early Studies In Local Anaesthesia

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WE GO ALONG making lists of foods that are "good for you"—such, notably, as carrots and spinach and milk. The question arises are any foods bad for you? Of course I don't mean frankly poisonous substances that may be eaten as foods by mistake, such as toothpicks for mushrooms; or contaminated foods, such as cans that have botulism, or uncured meats that have trichina, or plain food poisoning from foods infected with germs. I mean good food that we eat regularly. Do any such common foods cause disease?

Well, several have been accused from time to time. Tomatoes and cancer is one combination which we can dismiss as purely a mistake in statistics and reasoning. Just because a neighbor down the street used to eat lots of tomatoes and then came down with cancer is no proof.

Meat and salt, however, have come in for accusations that have some basis, and demand consideration. Meat, so the accusation runs, is not one of Nature's foods. Ergo when we eat it we are going against Nature and will suffer. Many doctors prohibit meat to their patients who have Bright's disease, high blood pressure, arthritis and gout, so by an argument equally fallacious it is concluded that meat causes these diseases. Personally I am convinced that meat does not cause any disease and that it is a wholesome and valuable and harmless part of man's diet. But is there any evidence for or against this view?

Meat and Blood Pressure So far as the relationship between meat eating and high blood pressure, hardening of the arteries and Bright's disease is concerned, we have, for instance, the evidence of Dr. William A. Thomas, who accompanied the McMillan Arctic Expedition and, with their diet in mind, examined a group of Eskimos. All Eskimos live practically entirely on meat from the time they are weaned. Babies are nursed by their mothers for four to six years until their teeth are strong enough to eat meat.

Dr. Thomas examined 142 adults between the ages of forty and sixty years. Of these only three had blood pressures which an American life insurance company would consider too high. In a group of nine Eskimos over sixty years of age, none had a blood pressure over 140. Evidence of kidney or Bright's disease was present in only 13 of a group of 202 Eskimos over sixty years of age. This is below the average of most of our population who live on a mixed diet.

Dr. Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the Arctic explorer, offered to live in the climate of New York and eat an exclusively meat diet. He was examined regularly by physicians expert in such diseases and after two years there was no change in his blood pressure, no evidence of increased hardening of the arteries and no evidence of kidney damage in his urine.

Salt Not Harmful Salt is another article of diet about which similar accusations have been made. The idea started in 1904 when Ambard and Beaudard, two French physicians, stated that blood pressure was influenced by the amount of salt in the diet. For a long time after this any unfortunate person who was found to have a blood pressure one millimeter over normal was not allowed to have enough salt to help get up a decent sweat. There is no record that this regimen ever did anybody any good. Later Berger and Feinberg, in a carefully controlled series of experiments, proved that blood pressure was not influenced to any appreciable extent either by removing salt from the diet, or adding it in excessive amount. A regular intake of salt is one of the basic necessities of animal life. Any excess you may take does no harm, but is excreted leaving no trace.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

B. M.:—Last summer I suffered a sunstroke and now get dizzy when over-tired or over-heated.

Answer: Persons who have ever had a sunstroke must ever afterwards be very careful about getting out on a hot day or overheated in houses. Also they are easily exhausted.

JOIN GULF'S "Anti-Breakdown" Club TODAY...

BEFORE THIS WAR IS OVER, there may be only two kinds of people in America...

1. those who can still get to work in automobiles,
2. those who are forced to walk.

If you want to be in the fortunate group who will still be riding to work in automobiles, join Gulf's "Anti-Breakdown" Club today. How do you do it? Just come in for Gulf's Protective Maintenance Plan!

This plan was conceived by experts in car care. Gulf developed it because car maintenance is a most important civilian job.

1 It protects your car at 39 danger points!

GULF'S Protective Maintenance Plan includes Gulf Registered Lubrication which reaches up to 39 vital points with six different Gulf Lubricants that reduce wear, and lengthen your car's life.

2 It helps keep your motor in A-1 shape!

IT'S IMPORTANT to give your car a good motor oil and change regularly. Gulf offers two outstanding oils... Gulf Pride, "The World's Finest Motor Oil," and Gulfube, an extra-quality oil costing a few cents less.

3 It stretches your gas coupons!

AIR-FILTER and spark-plug cleaning, and radiator flushing help give better gas mileage. A clean air filter makes gas burn more economically; clean plugs increase power; a clean radiator prevents overheating.

A Model is Murdered ~ BABS LEE

CHAPTER ELEVEN

The assistant cameraman, Paul, was a short fellow. He was in his shirt sleeves and was staring at the girl through the ground glass in the camera.

"Turn your face a little more to the right," he commanded. "That's it. Now that left hand, can't you make it more graceful? The girl flexed a bare arm and tried another pose.

"No, not like that. You haven't got a Charlie horse, have you? You look like you was rubbin' on liniment."

The blonde straightened up, indignantly, and put her hands on her hips.

"Don't bark at me like that, Paul! I'm get nervous and spoil your shot. How's this?" Again she reached over and grasped the top of her stocking with both hands. She was a vision of loveliness. Argus thought. Beads of perspiration stood out on her brow.

"That's worse than ever!" rasped the cameraman. "You're too tense! Relax, will you? You don't hafta work that hard to pull on a stocking! Look—turn this way a little. Now—that's too much. Now, cross your leg a little higher. No—hold it like this." Paul stepped over to the dais and lifted her leg to the desired angle, then he moved the arm nearest the camera backward a trifle.

"Hold it," he said. That don't look so much like a cow!" He returned to the camera.

"Hold it, now!" Paul commanded. "Smile! You haven't gotta run in it already. You're supposed to like the stockings. Look, it's pretty, isn't it? The blonde's face registered an expression of pleased surprise.

"Swell!" he said. "Now, just hold the stocking top with the tips of your fingers, not your whole hand. That's it! Good! Now!"

"Tough way to make a living, eh?" Argus asked Grange.

"It don't seem quite decent to me." The Inspector shook his head dubiously. "Running around half naked!"

"OK. Steady now! I'm gonna take it." Paul slid a holder into the camera and squeezed a rubber ball he held in his hand that was linked to the camera by a long cord. "That's all for that," he told the girl. "Next!" he called.

The girl jumped off the platform and disappeared into the dressing room, as another took her place.

"Next" was a dark-haired girl with an oval face and very white skin. She was wearing a dress of gold lame that clung tightly to her figure. Paul helped her up on the platform.

"I'd like to paint her," Grange whispered. "She's a honey!"

The corner where Argus and the Inspector were standing was dark, and so far they had remained unobserved. The camera man had his back to them most of the time and the model, though facing them, was staring into the bright lights. She too had taken her seat on the dais, and pulling up the hem of her evening gown to a point above the knee, she thrust one stockinged limb outward and posed in the act of fastening her garter.

"That's good," said the camera man. "Just hold that." He changed the lighting effects. "Now, lean over a little more. More still!"

"Takes quite a bit of electrical

"Why, if it isn't Mr. Sturgis and this," Argus observed, noting the coils of rubberized wire that lay around the floor, and the huge plugs that connected them with the lights. "Must cost money."

"Great. Miss Lane!" exclaimed Paul. "We're going to take the shot now. Steady!" He took three pictures in rapid succession. "That's all," he said. He turned out the lights. Then he tucked a bunch of holders under his arm and headed for the spot where Grange and Argus were standing.

"Who are you?" he asked.

"Police!" answered Grange.

"Oh. The Syria Verne murder, eh? That was tough!"

"Say do you shoot stuff like this all the time?" asked Argus.

"Yeah, same old grind. But yuh gotta eat!"

"You don't sound as though you enjoyed it much," went on Argus.

The girl in the gold lame came up to them. Argus noticed that her eyes were large and brown. Her eyelashes rose and fell like dark palm fronds in the tropical trade winds.

"I'm Cynthia Lane," she said. "I heard y'all talking about po' Syria Verne. I declare, it's just terrible, isn't it?"

"Yes," replied Argus. "Allow me to present Inspector Grange, Miss Lane, and I'm Argus Steele."

"The famous detective? Oh my. I'm so thrilled! But what are you all doin' heah? You certainly don't think Mr. Sturgis had anything to do with it, do you?" Her eyes were wide.

"Well," grumbled the cameraman, "I've got work to do. Excuse me." Neither Grange nor Argus noticed his departure.

"I'm shoah Mr. Sturgis neva shot that poor girl. Neva in a million years. Why he was in love with her and so jealous—um—um! My how they used to fight sometimes! But then I guess Syria kind of liked to fuss." The eye-shading palm fronds rose and fell. Cynthia smiled and her face dimpled.

"So they had plenty of fights," said Grange.

"Well, I suppose I shouldn't really say anything against her now that she's daid, Inspector, but she shoah had a temper! Why only las' week I heard her fussin' with Mr. Flagg."

"Flagg? What about?" George asked.

"Well, she told him she was goin' to leave his agency afech all he's done for her too. Then he talked her plumb out of it. He's such a lamb! Said there shouldn't be any hard feelin's between them and that if he'd lost, he'd lost, but she mustn't throw up her career."

"Oh, he did, did he?" Grange grunted. "Maybe I'd better check on his whereabouts last night at midnight. What else did he have to say?"

"That's all I heard, Inspector," Cynthia lowered her eyes. "Because they shut the door."

"That's too bad," Argus chuckled sympathetically. "What part of New England are you from, Miss Lane?"

"New England! Why I'm from the South, Mr. Steele." She giggled. "South Jersey if you must know!"

"No!" said Argus. "Would you believe that, Inspector?"

Just then the studio door opened and Pierre Sturgis limped in, followed by a portly, white-haired man.

CAN WOMEN HOLD WARTIME GAINS?

Post-war Outlook Is Discussed by Three National Leaders

By ADELAIDE KERR AP Features Writer

What is the outlook for women after the war?

Will there still be a place for women in industry, when we are no longer in need of bombers and guns?

What is the prospect for business and professional women?

What problems will the home-maker face?

These questions are agitating a lot of people these days. So I laid them before three experts and got some very interesting answers.

Consider the problem of women in industry first.

Ellen M. Davies, personnel director of the Waterbury, Conn. manufacturing plant of Chase Brass & Copper Co., and consultant to Army Service Forces on the employment of civilian women in Army installations, expects to see thousands of women still working in industry after the war.

"And I don't think these women will supplant men in keeping their jobs, either," she told me when I questioned her on the subject. "We are going to have such a complete revision of our way of life after the war that both men and women will be needed to produce new goods. There will be new kinds of houses, new equipment to run them, and consequently more leisure for women. There will be shorter hours for workers and more people working in the reconversion job ahead. There will be shorter hours for workers and more people working. In the reconversion job ahead, women will have a place because of the many kinds of jobs they have learned to do in this war."

Post-war Outlook

Now what of the outlook for business and professional women after the war?

"It looks as though women would have great opportunities," said Miss Bess Bloodworth, vice-president of Namm's Store, Brooklyn, and a member of the Women's Advisory committee of the War Manpower Commission. "Thousands of women have taken advantage of the opportunities which this war offered them. Now they are accepted in fields where they rarely worked before. After the war there will be more women chemists, engineers and draughtsmen, more women heading educational programs and running their own businesses. Women should have big opportunities in the fields of nutrition and housing too. There may be the old tendency to replace women with men but let us hope that their efficiency will be recognized in these new fields regardless of sex." But the story of the outlook for women after the war does not end there. What lies before the millions of home-makers who constitute the greatest women group of all?

Sees Big Problem

"They face a big problem," said the famous novelist, Fannie Hurst, when I asked her opinion on the subject. "After the war, women will have to make a home for a different male universe. Men who have been in service are going to come home with different ideas and ideals. They will be skeptical and embittered. They have seen other civilizations and they are not coming back the same. This will bring a changed point of view into the home."

"So women will have to be on their toes and ready for the change. If they are not, they will be bewildered and 'out of it.' Women can't shut themselves within four walls any more. They must take an active part in the communities in which they live."

Dogs of War Help Planes Bomb Nazis

(By Associated Press)

LONDON — Night after night American Air Force and RAF bombers shuttled across the channel and unerringly bombed secret key fortifications in a small fishing village near the Belgian city of Ostend guided by the ingenious signals of natives, reveals the Belgian Relief Society, a member agency of the National War Fund.

The Nazis clamped down iron curfews and hundreds of soldiers conducted a nightly census of the inhabitants but still the raids went

SCENE OF HUGE ALLIED DRIVE IN ITALY

FROM CASSINO to the sea Allied troops are engaged in one of the great artillery battles of the war as indicated by arrows on the map. Gen. Mark Clark's Fifth Army struck on the west flank, while British troops, some units of which had made their way secretly over the mountains, thrust toward Cassino from the east. on without a bomb dropped on unimportant targets.

One night just as Allied planes neared the coast, a German patrol spotted a flashlight streaking down the beach at incredible speed toward a new big gun emplacement. The bombers changed their course and just as the soldiers fired and the light dropped to the sand, bombs struck the target on the nose.

Later the Germans found a Bel-

"I'm sorry I invented the pocket!"

IF I had known that some Americans would be using pockets to hold all the extra money they're making these days I never would have invented them.

Pockets are good places to keep hands warm. Pockets are good places to hold keys... and loose change for carfare and newspapers.

But pockets are no place for any kind of money except actual expense money these days.

The place—the only place—for money above living expenses is in War Bonds.

Bonds buy bullets for soldiers.

Bonds buy security for your old age.

Bonds buy education for your kids.

Bonds buy things you'll need later—that you can't buy now.

Bonds buy peace of mind—knowing that your money is in the fight.

Reach into the pocket I invented. Take out all that extra cash. Invest it in interest-bearing War Bonds.

You'll make me very happy if you do.

You'll be happy too.

Rural Life Sunday Is Observed by Grange

Goshen grange was host Sunday afternoon to the Bunker Hill and the Concord churches, when a program observing Rural Life Sunday and Mother's day was presented at the Goshen grange hall.

A basket dinner at 1:30 was attended by nearly 100 persons.

Mrs. Helen Miskimins, lecturer of Goshen grange presided over a program in which all three organizations participated.

Rev. H. E. Stout, pastor of the Bunker Hill church, spoke on rural life, emphasizing that the Bible is a rural book, and that the grange includes the entire family. He stressed the need of preparation for the post war period, when millions of men and women will be returned to normal life, and urged that there be no relaxation of religious and moral standards.

Other numbers on the program included a welcome by William Miskimins, master of Goshen grange; group singing in charge of Mae Naomi Shinn; "A Boy's Tribute to Mother," by Albert Capel; vocal solos, Misses Naomi Shinn and Priscilla Beery; trumpet solo, Robert Marty; exercise, "Mother's Helpers," by four juvenile grangers; piano solo, Miss Martha Weingart; readings, Miss Marilyn Weingart and Mrs. Helen Miskimins.

It was announced that the next regular meeting of Goshen grange will be held Thursday evening, May 18, to avoid conflict with the graduation exercises at Goshen High schools at Damascus.

Ellsworth grange will be host at a county grange banquet June 16.

Household Hints

Molasses is the richest unrationed food source of iron.

Iodine stains may be removed with ammonia.

Never use milk on an ink stain as it may help to set it.

Milk stains may be removed from cotton and linen fabrics by washing.

To keep lashes long and thick, remove mascara thoroughly every night.

Remove buttons, buckles and trimmings from garments before laundering.

Be sure to brush folds and seams of overcoats and other articles before storing away.

To make mascara stick, wet lashes, dust with powder and then apply mascara.

When washing single garments, conserve hot water by washing in a basin or small container rather than big tub.

Pin perfume-soaked dabs of cotton to the hems of garments to lend a subtle fragrance to body and clothes.

ONE KILLED, 6 HURT IN GIRARD MISHAP

YOUNGSTOWN, May 15.—Carl K. Paolucci of Niles was killed and six persons were injured early today when a car driven by Paolucci collided with a gasoline truck and then crashed through a building in Girard, north of here.

Those injured are Carl V. Clemente, 24, William Aulet, 21, Philip Fredericks, 27, and David Fredericks, 27, all of Niles, and Miss Marion Tereba, 20, and Miss Sue Sueby, both of Warren, occupants of the car.

Herman Knapp of Canton, driver of the truck which was loaded with 7,000 gallons of gasoline, was uninjured.

The car crashed through the front of a confectionary store.

YOUNGSTOWN, May 15.—Ralph J. Stover, 23, Attica, escaped injury last night when his steel-laden truck hit a pole near here, causing high tension wires to fall into trees.

Three explosions that could be heard a mile rocked the district as wires carrying current at 4,000 and 69,000 volts hit the trees. They did not fall to the ground. Stover, who said the brake locked on one wheel of his truck, was treated at a hospital here for shock.

Washington Round-up

News and Views, Briefly
On What's Going On
In Capital

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 15.—Supporters of a bill to outlaw state poll taxes in federal elections, aware that they cannot muster the two-thirds margin needed for a motion to limit debate, strove today for at least a majority vote on the cloture proposal.

Sen. Mead (D-NY) said the success of future attempts to bring up the controversial poll tax bill may depend on the number of votes
the cloture petition receives.

Opponents of the anti-poll tax measure are expected to start action to pigeon-hole the bill immediately after the cloture vote.

WAR BOND HOLDERS

The average war worker has accumulated enough cash to support him over three months of unemployment without cashing in his war bonds, Rep. Harness (R-Ind) found in a survey of employees in 50 plants.

Harness asked the workers if they would be obliged to sell the bonds, and how soon, if they became jobless. Ninety per cent replied they would have to cash the securities within from one week to two years.
The average was three months.
Harness said 89 per cent of the workers believe it would be wrong for government-owned plants to

Leetonia Student Prom Is Enjoyed

LEETONIA, May 15.—The annual Junior-Senior prom was held at the High school building Saturday evening with members of the Senior class, the High school faculty, the board of education and their wives as guests.

The Patron-Teachers association served dinner for 100. Joseph Jessard, president of the Junior class, was toastmaster. Margaret Rankin, a junior, welcomed the Seniors and their guests. Clifford Aiken, president of the Senior class, responded.

Miss Rankin and Shirley Holt gave a piano duet. James L. McBride, principal of the High school, F. R.
Naragon, superintendent of schools and Edward Duko, a Junior, also gave short talks.

Following the dinner, the group danced to the music of Ted Ross' orchestra in the gym which was beautifully decorated to represent
"an old fashioned garden."

Leetonia chapter, No. 253, O. E.
S. will present a Flag day program in the Masonic temple following the regular meeting this evening. Members of the chapter attended church services at St. Paul's Lutheran

WPB Eases Restrictions On Class A Coal Stokers

W. W. Tolerton of the Citizens
Ice & Coal Co. has received word from the Iron Fireman Mfg. Co. that the WPB has simplified the restrictions controlling the distribution of Class A coal stokers.

Under the new ruling, Class A stokers may be sold without special authorization to full orders for the Army and Navy, and for approved installation in projects authorized by preference ratings regularly assigned to war housing and other construction projects.

Now, if WPB has granted approval for the construction of a building which has a stoker included in its specifications, and has assigned preference ratings for the materials required in that building, that preference rating may be used for the purchase of a stoker without any other authorization from WPB.

Service Your Car For Summer, Is Hine Advice

Because America has always had such an abundance of automotive transportation, it's hard to believe that before the war is over we may be up against the problem of not having enough trucks, busses and other cars to meet essential needs, says H. J. Hine, local Ford, Mercury and Lincoln dealer of 301 W.
State st.

To Preserve automobiles, Hine is encouraging the "Protective Service" by cooperating with the Standard Oil Co. in its Warm Weather Lubrication Special which includes all necessary service to all components such as the air cleaner, battery, etc.

To complete the service the Hine
Motor Co., is remaining open evenings for lubrication, car washing and minor repair service.

RAIL KEY LOSS PERILS HONAN

CRITICAL SITUATIONS face China as Jap drives along the Peiping-Hankow railroad (1) have resulted in the loss to the Chinese of Chengchow (2), key point on the north-south line. Chengchow is in northern Honan province where the crops, supplying millions of Chinese, are reported unusually good. The Chinese have wrecked the line to frustrate the Jap plans, which aim not only to control an overland route for their supplies and troops, but also to "starve out" the Chinese by cutting off the vast food supply area of northern Honan. (International)

STATE'S LARGEST DISTRICT MEET IN SALEM SATURDAY

Akron North Looms Best; Salem Rated Second Of 20 Teams

The Northeast Ohio District track and field meet—generally the largest district affair in the state—will be held at Reilly field Saturday, starting at 9 a. m. and continuing until the finals have been run off in the evening.

Last year's meet had an entry list of some 18 teams and Manager Fred Cope expects at least that many again this year and probably a few more. Coach Rib Allen's Boardman squad came out on top of the meet in 1943 by just one point, nosing out the powerful Akron North squad which will again be favored to win this season.

North, by virtue of its win over Akron East and Salem at the Canton relay two weeks ago, will be odds-on favorites to score the highest tally. The Quakers, though they finished third at Canton, will be out to get up at least a notch in the ratings by nosing out Akron East. Cope believes Salem should have done that at Canton and is sure his athletes can accomplish it this week.

All first and second places winners will qualify for the state meet in Columbus on May 26 and 27. The relay teams placing in that order also earn their way to Columbus.

Likely qualifiers for Salem are Charlie Dunlap, Frank Entiken, Tony Hoover, Bob Shea, Ed Perko, and possibly the two regular relay teams. There will also be a shuttle relay and a medley relay run.

Records for the district event aren't going to be easily broken. They stand a fair chance of being bettered as some of the state's best and fastest athletes will be here Saturday, but a glance over the list will show them hard to touch.

Dawn Society Aids Blind Men To See World Once Again

By BONNIE WILEY

SAN FRANCISCO — A clearing house for corneas, San Francisco's unique Dawn society, is swept off its feet these days with about 1,000 letters a month from donors who want to pledge their eyes, after death, that the blind may see—and from the blind, themselves, groping toward a new-found ray of hope.

The Dawn society was organized in 1939 in the belief that sight could be restored to many of the blind if a successful corneal transplant operation could be performed.

The cornea is the transparent part of the eyeball coat over the iris and pupil which admits light to the interior. Through an intricate operation, corneas can be transplanted from one eye to another.

Sponsored by the Grand California Lodge of the International Order of Good Templars, the non-profit society has one purpose—to secure pledges of eyes, after the death of donors, for eye surgeons and eye hospitals registered on its rolls. It also keeps a file of blind patients who might be benefited by operation.

"The corneal transplant will not restore sight in all cases," pointed out O. A. Springfield, the society treasurer. "There are about 200,000 blind in the nation who might be cured by the operation. We require an examination by an eye specialist before any blind applicant is admitted to our rolls."

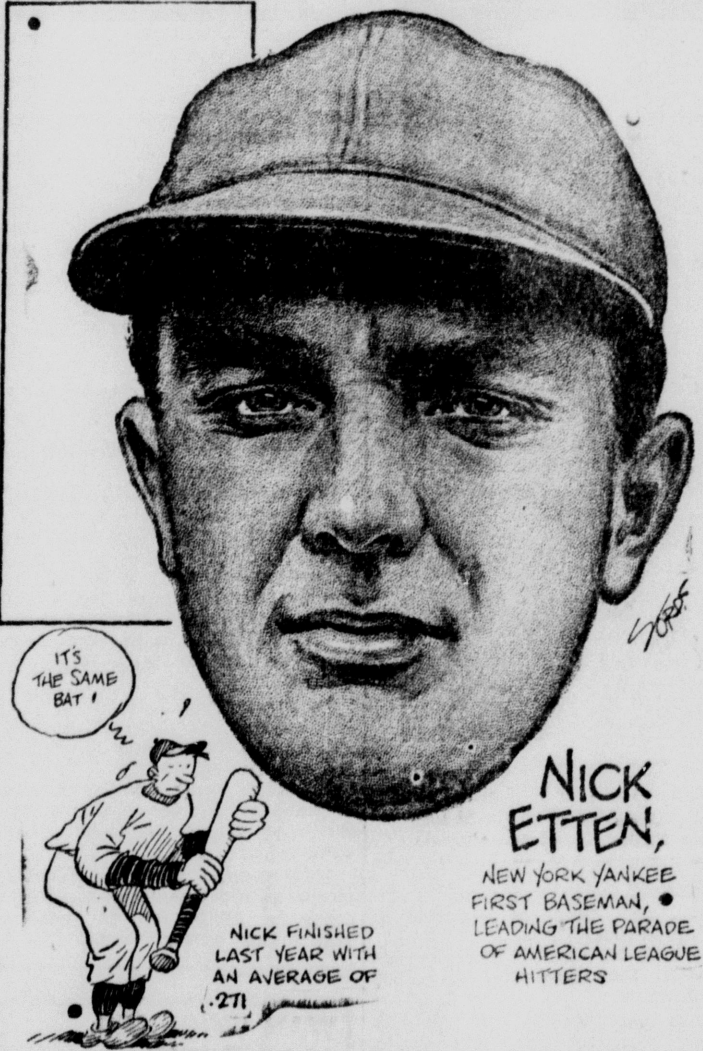

Hundreds of pledges have been obtained. More are needed.

One letter came from a 14-year-old girl. "When I die I want my eyes to go to a blind person," she wrote.

She received a pledge card by return mail with the fervent wish that her pledge would not be carried out for a long, long time to come.

Texan Says Apostle Paul Was Lover Of Athletics

BY HAROLD V. RATLIFF

AP Features

BRYAN, Tex.—The Rev. Milton R. (Mit) Maloney uses sports to further religion and vice versa.

His is a triple play—sports editor of the Bryan Daily Eagle and pastor of two small Baptist churches. It is a happy combination, and interest builder for both newspaper and pulpit.

Once a week he devoted his column "Goal Lines" to a religious discourse in which he uses the feats of athletics to drive home his points in favor of the Lord.

He has found that sports played a large part in the lives of the people who wrote, and were written about, in the Master Book.

The field of sports is a rich source for illustration in sermons on Christian living," he says from his newspaper desk. "Introducing this feature I said, 'Sports is merely boiling down the game of life to a few hours of game competition. Many of life's lessons are in the games we play.'"

A great sports enthusiast in Biblical history was the Apostle Paul, he says. And it is largely from Paul's writings that the Rev. Maloney fashions the homilies that have made him unique among the men who follow sportdom's glittering trail.

He comments: "Paul spoke of training in Hebrews 12:1 like this Let us lay aside every weight, and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us."

Animals that are symbols of sport—the Longhorns of Texas, the Broncos of Bryan High—all have Biblical references, the Rev. Maloney observes. Take the Longhorn. "The cattle of upon a thousand hills are mine, saith the Lord." Then the Broncos—"It takes a good man to tame a wild horse but only God can conquer a wild man."

Preaches Bible Sports

He tells of the spectators, the umpires, the awards, the men who strive for athletic glory.

Spectators — Hebrews 12:1, "Wherefore seeing we also are compassed with so great a cloud of witnesses."

Umpires—Second Timothy 4:8, "A crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge, shall give me."

The awards — First Corinthians 9:24,25 (the chapter of pine leaves at Corinth stadiums). "Know ye not that they which run in a race run all, but one receiveth the prize? x x x Now they do it to obtain a corruptible crown; but we an incorruptible."

To strive—Second Timothy 2:5, "And if a man also strive for masteries, yet is he now crowned, except he strive lawfully."

The Rev. Maloney writes of boxing in Biblical times by quoting First Corinthians 9:26, "So fight I, not as one that beateh the air."

In telling of a track meet in which Texas A. and M. College got the most first places yet lost, he says, "Christian victory depends as much on the second, third and fourth runners as on the mighty men who set the pace. It isn't individual honor but the glory of God for which we strive. The boy who jogs in third or fourth is still adding up points for his team."

The minister was shepherding his flocks following graduation from the Southwestern Baptist Seminary in 1942 when the Eagle lost its sports editor. Mrs. Lee J. Rountree, publisher of the paper, offered the Rev. Maloney the job with the understanding that it would not interfere with his church work. But he wasn't a green hand at writing by any means. He was graduated in journalism from Baylor University in 1933 and worked on newspapers at Mexia and Gladewater, Tex.

The Rev. Maloney is serious about sports and religion being of the same cloth. None of that frivolous stuff you may have read about through the years, like saying baseball got its mention in the Bible when "Eve stole first and Adam stole second."

Just a fellow's way of putting a sock in religion as well as sports.

Utah Cage Coach Claims Team Won Title By Losing

By LOUDON KELLY

SALT LAKE CITY—Deepthinking Coach Vadal Peterson raised his head from a six-fathom study and announced that his surprising Utah basketball team won the NCAA basketball championship and the mythical world's title by losing.

Let's repeat that for the benefit of those who didn't catch it the first time. He said they won by losing.

In fact the coach feels that it was the Utes' worst defeat of the season—a 54-39 whipping by the Salt Lake City airbase team—that "really made out ball club."

"It was a morale-builder instead of a discouragement," said the earnest, quiet Peterson, 25 years a basketball coach and hoop teacher at Utah the last 17. "We learned then the lesson about capitalizing on our mistakes."

Defeats Educational
Learn their lesson they did, for it proved to be a simple matter for the Utes to beat Colorado College for the Rocky Mountain championship.

But the course in basketball tactics wasn't completed with the first shelling of the Utes. Lesson II came in the first round of the Madison Square Garden invitation tourney, when the Utes were slammed down by Kentucky 46 to 38.

"This Kentucky team more than any other we faced all season, showed us how to readjust ourselves to our opponents and to developing situations."

So, with two failures as valuable background material, the Utes rolled along to a 42-40 victory over Dartmouth in the NCAA title game and a 43-36 win over St. John's of Brooklyn in the Red Cross benefit contest for the unofficial championship of the world.

Second Winners
Utah thereby became the second team from the Rocky mountain Wyoming won the same crowns in 1943.

Don't get the impression that any team that loses to Salt Lake City airbase and Kentucky automatically wins the national title.

Aside from willingness to profit by mistakes, the coach remarked, "the biggest asset of our team, I think, was its ability to control rebounds off both backboards."

"And all of the boys can jump. They have the ability to shoot, too, especially one-handers. If the opposition let them get set they really could hit. And if they were rushed then would drive in for shots. That gave us balanced offense."

"We also showed the East something about defense. Those long arms seemed to be slinging in all directions all the time. Another thing about this team was its outstanding fight. They never gave up even when six or eight points behind."

Youth Useful
Peterson acknowledged that the extreme youth of his champion knocked some of the props from under the belief that competitive experience is necessary for winning college basketball teams.

"If you have a combination of kids that works together as this one did, you often are better off than with a team that features two or three old heads but other players that don't pull with them so well."

"My first six players worked so well together that any one of them was potentially dangerous as a scorer. In the years I've coached basketball, I never had a gang that showed such united effort and worked so hard to help one another along. Never any friction or jealousy."

The Ute youngsters, their coach feels, hadn't even reached their peak of perfection when they won the titles.

Deaths Caused by Autos Exceeded by Fatal Falls

NEW YORK—Slippery floors are more often fatal to women than men, but the male is more susceptible to a tumble on the stairs, according to statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

Altogether, the statisticians say, falls were the leading cause of death in the United States in 1943. Their 25,000 fatalities outstripped those of automobile accidents by 2,000.

Most of the fatalities from stair and floor stumbling—which account for more than half of all fall fatalities—were among men and women over 65. But every age group has its particular hazard.

Under five years, tumbles from beds, windows and porches head the list. As the boy grows—and climbs—he is more apt to kill himself in a fall from a diving board, a tree or a roof.

Between 15 and 64, fall fatalities among men are most often traceable to industrial hazards—ladders, scaffolds and other building construction particularly.

Steve Mesner, Cincinnati third baseman, first played organized ball with Ponca City of the Western Association when he was only 16.

Naples Fight Arena Like Madison Square To Feder

By SID FEDER

AP Features Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples.—The sign over the entrance said "Madison Square Garden of Naples" and except for the fact that there were no hot dog hawkers—or civilians to eat 'em, it might have been the big Eighth avenue sport arena back home.

Of course you had to overlook some things like the cracks in the ceiling left by bomb raids on this triple-decked salon of swat that used to be a circus theater—no cracks now please.

Just Like Home
But the first thing you see inside is the GI fighter Jack Beatty stiffening Steve Rodovich of Gary, Ind., with one punch with the same effect as in Mike Jacobs' swat shoppe and the first person you bump into is Fidel La Barba just as able looking as when he was flyweight champ and the turnout of 2,000 or so soldiers from half a dozen countries—all of them in on an Oakley—giving out with the same kind of fight-side holler you'll hear in the Garden or Chicago Stadium or Hollywood Legion Bowl.

Whenever a new soldier swatter taking a day off from the battlefield is introduced you can tell from the road just how many in the house comes from the same home town.

Announcer Pvt. Phil Craig of Ashley, Pa., uses the old Joe Humphries technique — no loud squeakers; just plant yourself in the middle of the ring and let er rip.

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY THAT FARM YOU HAVE ALWAYS DESIRED!

This 87½-acre farm is located on the Lincoln Highway and almost adjoins the city of Lisbon. Is improved with very fine brick house of eight rooms. This house is modern with electricity, stoker, air conditioned furnace. With a small amount of expense this house could be remodeled into a beautiful home. The lawn needs to be graded and planted and shrubbery planted. The setting for this home would then be very beautiful. The cost of the new heating plant installed in this home was $950.00.

Bank barn about 60x20, under slate roof. This is a stock barn. Electric pump which pumps water to the house and barn. Two-car brick garage attached to side of house. New cement block milk house, double corn crib, 2 chicken houses and other necessary out-buildings. There is a large amount of coal under this farm. Some young timber growing into money. The owners of this farm are an aged couple who are no longer able to do the work. For this reason we are going to offer this farm to you for a short time at the low price of $7,500.

Science Solves the Secret

Microscopic Particles Called Golgi Make The Body Grow

By H. W. BLAKESLEE

AP Science Editor

NEW YORK—A long-sought secret of nutrition has been partly discovered with the demonstration that a microscopic particle called a Golgi body is the living element which builds fats and proteins.

What element of animal body cells did this was previously unknown. The proteins are the building blocks of the body and the Golgi bodies appear to be the microscopic masons.

Their job is done inside the tissue cells which in the human body number around a quadrillion. The raw materials are the fats and proteins of food, after the digestive system has broken them down, the blood stream has distributed them, and they have filtered through the walls of the various cells.

In each cell there are from one to several dozen Golgi bodies. Within these bodies, the raw materials are apparently transformed into the special kinds of fats and proteins characteristic of each tissue.

Existence Was Doubtful
 Most of the Golgi bodies are so diminutive — about one-twenty-five thousandth of an inch in diameter — and so transparent, that even since they were discovered in 1898 by an Italian scientist, Camillo Golgi, there has been doubt even about their existence.

The techniques which helped to verify them and at the same time demonstrated photographically an chemical means that the little bodies were producing fats and proteins are reported in the Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences by Dr. Leonard G. Worley and his wife, Dr. Elizabeth K. Worley of the department of biology, Brooklyn College, N. Y., and the Scripps Institute of Oceanography of the University of California.

Dr. Worley, 38, is a native of Lincoln, Neb. His wife is from South Hadley, Mass.

What Made The Mystery
 The mystery about Golgi bodies was largely due to the fact that they were not generally believed to be visible until a tissue cell had been killed and its contents rendered visible with salts of certain heavy metals. Then the Golgi bodies showed up as rings, rods and networks. It had never been certain that these forms were not merely precipitations of the metallic salt. The corresponding living structures are in the form of minute granules and small balls quite different in shape from the Golgi bodies of dead cells. These bodies have been known for years, but it had never been shown conclusively that they are the living representative of the Golgi apparatus of the dead tissue.

Blue Stain Used
 The Worleys used a methylene blue stain which did not kill the cells or their contents. This dye colored the little spheres a darker blue than any of the other scores of particles visible in the cells. Photographically the Worleys were able to trace the transition from the tiny living balls—their consistency that of overripe tomatoes—through the distortion process accompanying death, into the classical and familiar rings and networks discovered by Golgi.

Fully recorded, too, in the pictures was the behavior of the living

The charge was filed against the soldier by Lloyd Luke, near Lisbon, at whose home Tice appeared and created a disturbance.

It is only six minutes by bomber plane from Dover, England, to Calais, nearest port in occupied France.

Postwar Conditions On Trade Stressed By Economy Expert

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, May 15.—Post-war world trade will return to conditions prevalent in the five years prior to 1939, making necessary an international fund to help stabilize currency, asserts Brig. Gen. Leonard P. Ayres, vice-president of the Cleveland Trust Co.

Writing in the company's monthly business bulletin, the economist explained that in those years before the present war European countries imported six dollars worth of merchandise for each five dollars worth exported, while the four other continents exported more than they imported.

"Similar conditions will prevail after peace returns," the retired army officer predicted, "and that is the basic reason why the United Nations are now organizing a great international fund to help stabilize national currencies in the world markets."

Concerning present conditions, Ayres commented: "By all ordinary standards of measurement this is a period of greater material prosperity than we have ever before experienced."

It is a strange anomaly that this would also be a period of business hesitation and restricted speculation.

Despite record wartime earnings corporations have not benefited from their prosperity in nearly as large a measure as might be supposed, the economist declared.

The gross income of all corporations at the all-time high of $250,000,000,000 in 1943, triple the corporate earnings for the bottom years of the depression.

The economist indicated that sharp increases, directly affecting war production, were apparent in the coal industry and in the output of machinery, transportation equipment, lumber, stone, clay and glass products and chemicals.

airmen who flew 90,000 offensive flights and dropped 130,000 tons of bombs on Fortress Europe.

In the strike against the Brenner pass line hand-picked bombardiers attacked the 3,500-foot-long Avision viaduct, scoring hits at the northern and southern ends and probably in the middle. It was one of three strikes against the 8-mile Brenner gap through the Alps. There is an alternate route at the viaduct section and its destruction would stop traffic.

Yesterday's assaults against six rail yards and two air-ferries fields in the Po valley had good results. Reuters news agency estimated 500 to 750 heavy bombers were employed in yesterday's assaults in Italy.

Showing the enormous air strength thrown into the support of the Fifth and Eighth armies in their offensive against the Gustav line, Mediterranean air force headquarters announced its planes had flown 11,950 sorties during the week ending Saturday.

DEATHS

SAMUEL MILLER

HANOVERTON, May 15.—Samuel Miller, 72, died at 1 p. m. Saturday at his home here of pneumonia, following two years' illness.

A resident here 33 years, he was born in Weissenback, Berne, Switzerland, July 29, 1872. He was a member of the Reformed church of Alliance and the Maccabee lodge. Two children preceded him in death.

Surviving are his wife, Louise; three sons, Louis E. Miller of Malvern, John W. Miller of North College Hill, O.; Samuel, Jr., gunners mate third class, U. S. Navy, stationed at Little Creek, Va.; two daughters, Mrs. Edith Hagan of Punta Gorda, Fla., and Mrs. Helen Kibler of Malvern; two brothers, Louis of North Benton and a brother in Switzerland, and seven grandchildren.

Funeral service will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday in the Christian church at Hanoverton in charge of Rev. Schairmann, pastor of the Evangelical Reformed church in Alliance. Burial will be in Grove Hill cemetery, Hanoverton.

Friends may call at the home anytime.

MRS. WILLIAM H. PURCELL

ALLIANCE, May 15.—Mrs. Gertrude Hartzell Purcell of 1315 S. Union ave., wife of William H. Purcell, founder and president of the Alliance Machine Co., died at her home Saturday following week's illness.

Born in Janesville, Wis., Mrs. Purcell had spent her entire life in this vicinity. She was a member of the Alliance Women's club.

Surviving with the husband are three daughters, Mrs. C. J. Rodman, Mrs. O. L. Lewis and Mrs. H. A. Fennerty, all of Alliance; seven grandchildren; a brother, Byron Hartzell of Alliance, and a sister Mrs. Belle Southworth of Alliance.

Private service was held today at the Cassidy & Turkle funeral home in charge of Dr. Charles B. Ketcham, president of Mount Union college.

Burial was in City cemetery.

Ohio Birth Rate Drops

To Record Low In March

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, May 15.—Old Doc Stork, proverbial bringer of babies, paid fewer calls on Ohioans last March than at any time since setting a record during the October following Pearl Harbor.

State Health Director R. H. Markwith said births last March totaled less than 9,400 and had been decreasing at the rate of from 500 to 1,000 monthly since last January. The record October, 1942, total was 13,600.

Dr. Markwith said births numbered 143,094 last year and, although the total was only slightly below the 143,610 for 1942, the decrease had been steady since that date. The 1941 total was 122,456 births.

He attributed the decrease to fewer marriages since the rush to the altar following Pearl Harbor.

By DeWitt MacKenzie

may have at least twice as many men under arms, apart from the vast forces of the western Allies. Thus despite Hitler's great strength, he no longer is able to defend adequately the entire perimeter of his European fortress. It should be remembered that he is only encircled by superior land forces, but that he also is ringed by air and by sea. Once the American-British-French armies of invasion are smashing at Hitler's lines in France in cooperation with the Russians on the east and the Allies in Italy and the Balkans, he will be unable to protect all points at once.

Veritas, the British military commentator, concludes that the manpower situation "clearly indicates the inevitability of Germany's eventual collapse in the field." However, he believes the Nazis will make a supreme effort to throw back the invading Allies, "or at least to effect a stalemate in the west before the Russians get at their vital of the other side."

German Planes Hit English Coast; Brenner Pass Is Hit Hard

(By Associated Press) LONDON, May 15.—American Flying Fortresses and Liberators attacked German invasion defenses in the Pas De Calais area nearest Britain today in the 31st consecutive day of the great aerial offensive, after a night in which German bombers sharply attacked the British coast.

YANKS ABANDON STRICKEN FORTRESS OVER AUSTRIA

THIS SPECTACULAR PHOTO was made from a U. S. bomber over Wiener Neustadt, Austria, as members (arrows) of a Flying Fortress "hit the silk" after the craft had been struck by flak. Some seconds later, after the rest of the crew took to their parachutes, the stricken bomber fell earthward and crashed in flames. This is a Signal Corps radiophoto.

Breach Made In Nazi Line As Allies Gain

(By Associated Press) ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, May 15.—French troops have advanced as much as seven miles from the take-off point on the Fifth army right wing in the all-out Allied offensive and captured the important town of Ausonia, creating a "significant breach" in the Germans' Gustav line in southern Italy, Allied headquarters announced today.

The Americans have smashed the enemy out of Santa Maria Infante and San Pietro on the lower Garigliano river front and taken vital mountain positions on both sides of the Ausente river.

The French have reached the hills dominating San Giorgio, equally as important as Ausonia.

The Americans are pressing an attack on Spigno, showing they have driven at least four miles north and west of Minturno.

Ausonia is six and a half miles north of Minturno and San Giorgio seven miles southwest of Cassino and one mile south of the Liri river.

Further to the north, the big Allied offensive also gained, with the British and Indians deepening their Rapido river bridgehead to at least 2,000 yards—more than a mile—and sending over great numbers of tanks to exploit this attack into the Liri valley, a direct road to Rome.

More than 2,000 prisoners already have streamed back into Allied cages and others were coming in constantly as the attacks progressed.

Very heavy casualties have been inflicted along the whole front and hard fighting continues everywhere up and down the line of attack, an Allied communiqué said.

The German 71st division, which was reconstituted after its original was wiped out at Stalingrad, bore the brunt of the Fifth army attack and lost over 1,200 men in prisoners alone, including six battalion commanders.

Upset Nazi Defenses The whole frontline defenses of this division have been overturned. After a bitter and bloody fight the Americans drove the Nazis out of the town of Santa Maria Infante at noon yesterday, pushed on to a road junction northeast of the town and fanned out to capture the village of San Pietro and the nearby hills, Monte Cerri and Monte Bracchi on either side of the Ussente river. Then they continued the attack on Spigno.

The French in the upper Garigliano area approached the Liri river in the vicinity of San Giorgio after occupying a number of dominating heights. Ausonia, in the valley connecting the Liri valley with the sea, fell yesterday afternoon.

In quick succession the embattled French won 2,500-foot Monte Rinchuso and 1,900-foot Colle Agrifoglio and occupied the towns of San Andrea and San Ambrogio and mopped up San Appolinare.

Subsequently the troops of Gen. Alphonse Juin routed the Germans from the 1,400-foot Colle Castellone, highest feature overlooking San Giorgio and Valle Cantelupo, which overlooks the Liri valley and flanks enemy positions in the valley.

THE HITLERITES are going to fight invasion with everything they have—and that represents tremendous striking power, although it's far from what it once was. And we shouldn't treat lightly the German claim that they have devastating secret weapons, for they may have.

Hitler's army is generally figured to total about 3,000,000, which is a formidable force. However, the German Reichswehr, big as it is, just isn't strong enough to cope with the Allied armies. The Russians alone

Former Lisbon Boy Victim of Air Crash

Petty Officer 3/c Joseph H. Tucker, 19, formerly of Lisbon, was killed Friday afternoon in an air-plane accident near Jacksonville, Fla., according to word received Saturday by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Tucker of Pittsburgh.

The accident occurred Friday during a routine training flight that was part of the advanced training in air gunnery. He enlisted in the Naval Air corps a year ago, while a senior in David Anderson High school, and had graduated six weeks ago with honors among a class of 160 gunners at Jacksonville.

His parents received a telegram from the commanding officer at Jacksonville notifying them of the mishap and praising the excellent work and skill of their son.

The body was returned with military escort to Lisbon yesterday and rites will be held tomorrow afternoon. Burial will be in the Lisbon cemetery.

Two Unhurt When Plane Comes Down

Forced to land his Navy plane in a field of mud, one-half mile east of East Palestine, late Saturday afternoon because of the severe electrical storm that swept the district, Arthur Donschky, 26, of Akron, a test pilot, was uninjured when the ship nosed over and damaged the propeller.

An unidentified companion also escaped injury. The plane later was transported by truck back to Akron.

The ship was forced down near the Ohio-Pennsylvania state line, east of Palestine.

Wind Carries Man Out Of Home, Causes Death

CHILLICOTHE, May 15.—James Orville Sackles, 52, died of a hemorrhage here yesterday after being blown from his home by a strong wind Saturday afternoon.

Sackles, a retired Baltimore & Ohio railroad car man, opened the front door of his home Saturday to get the daily paper, when the heavy wind, sweeping through the house, blew the door off its hinges and carried the door and the man out in the yard.

Sackles is survived by four sons in the service, one of whom is Neel Sackles, former Associated Press cartoonist now on duty in the navy at Washington.

RED ARMIES MASS FOR NEW ATTACKS

(By Associated Press) MOSCOW, May 15.—Red armies are believed massing for summer offensive surpassing any blow yet struck on the eastern front.

The spring lull which started in mid-April continued today and no fresh military dispatches were published from the front.

But there were multiplying signs of the coming push. Russian bombers, for instance, struck at the rail center of Brest Litovsk (in old Poland) starting 30 fires, and also attacked Nazi bases at Polotsk in White Russia and Narva in the Estonian republic.

Pravda reported a new Yak fighter plane was going into mass production. This is a modified version of the craft designed by Gen. Alexander Yakovlev, the fastest on the Russian front.

Recent visitors to several sections of the front said they saw intense activity indicating the drive was fairly imminent. Details could not be published, but preparations were described as immense.

It is assumed in Moscow that the offensive will be opened in unison with the allied invasion of Europe in accordance with decisions taken at Teheran by Marshal Stalin, President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

Chinese Capture Burmese Village

(By Associated Press) SOUTHEAST ASIA HEADQUARTERS, Kandy, Ceylon, May 15.—Chinese troops have captured Tarungyang, 11 miles north of Kanaung, and Burmese fighting for the Allies have raided Tanapu, only 28 miles north of Myitkyina, in the closest strike to that main Japanese base in northern Burma, Allied headquarters announced today.

Kanaung is the immediate objective of Lt.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's pre-Monsoon offensive. The Chinese troops, driving down the Mogaung valley, joined forces with Allied units at Manpin, a mile south of Tarungyang, the commune disclosed.

It gave no details of the Tanpu raid.

The commune announcing this success also declared mopping up operations are proceeding southwest of Kohima in the frontier region of northeast India, where the Japanese invaders have been reported regrouping in strength.

Sixty-five miles below Kohima, the bulletin said, the British are pushing on steadily against the enemy southwest of Imphal, where a communique yesterday reported Allied troops had driven into Potangbam. Heavy enemy artillery fire was reported in the Palei region but an expected enemy attack in that area failed to develop.

BOMBS CRASH IN NEW GUINEA

Wadke Island Section Undergoes Heaviest Attack Since Hollandia

(By Associated Press) ADVANCED ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, May 15.—The heaviest bombing since the pre-invasion softening of Hollandia was reported today as one of six separate assaults designed to immobilize the last remnants of Japanese air power in New Guinea.

Big Liberators and tree-skimming Mitchells dumped 334 tons Saturday on Wadke Island and the Mafin bay coastline to Sarai, 20 miles southwest on the Dutch New Guinea mainland.

Missing Leetonia Boy Is Prisoner

Missing in action since March 19, Staff Sgt. Lynn M. Ripley, 26, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ripley of Wadell st., Leetonia, is now listed as a prisoner of war in Germany, according to a message received Saturday afternoon through the International Red Cross.

Sgt. Ripley, an engineer-gunner on a B-24 Liberator bomber, was reported missing in action after a flight over Europe on March 19. His parents were notified April 13 and hadn't received any word since that time.

Sgt. Ripley enlisted in the air force Nov. 11, 1942. He was sent to Italy in December, 1943, and was stationed there at the time he was reported missing. The crew of which he was a member had made about a dozen or more flights over the continent before their plane presumably was shot down.

Invasion Possible, Germany Admits as D-Day Draws Near

By EDWARD D. BALL

LONDON, May 15.—The Germans, in their broadcast speculating on Allied invasion moves, admitted today that their west wall defenses might be penetrated after all when the blow comes.

"When the battle starts," a Berlin commentator said, "the fighting will not be limited to the divisions on the Atlantic wall or to points under attack, but small waves may reach far beyond. Then Germany will be called upon to stand her greatest and most dangerous test."

One report from the continental underground reaching London said the enemy hastily was reinforcing his air-borne and parachute forces in the west—not for counter-invasion of Britain but as a defensive measure.

Nazi propagandists had the moral support of the Japanese premier Hideki Tojo, as they awaited the expected assault. Tojo told his people yesterday that the German armed forces were "confident and impatient."

The British, meanwhile, addressing the peoples of occupied Europe in 24 languages in a radio broadcast, asked them to move immediately from the vicinity of important railway and industrial installations—prime targets in the pre-invasion hammering of fortress Europe.

A BBC speaker said "our pilots realize that the lives and homes of our friends are at stake. They therefore exercise the greatest possible care, but the scale of these attacks inevitably will add to the sufferings which you—our staunch friends—have so courageously endured in this war."

Tojo, who knows that if the western invasion succeeds his country stands alone against the Allied might, delivered a radio pep talk picturing Germany as "fully prepared to meet any situation she may find herself confronted with" and added that "Germany has perfected a position enabling her to carry through with counter-offensive operations."

The British people were warned again that these "go-to-offensive" moves might include an attempt of the Nazis to land on the British Isles.

There was reason to believe, on the basis of reports from Sweden, that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, the German anti-invasion chief, was being proclaimed the potential saviour of the Reich, rather than Hitler.

MINE SHAFT BLAST INJURES SALEM MAN William Allison, R. D. 3, Salem, was severely injured by a coal mine explosion yesterday as he was entering an old mine shaft near his home.

Attendants at the City hospital, where Allison was admitted at 4 p. m. yesterday said he suffered fractures of both legs. His condition is fair.

Exact details of the accident were not known at the hospital.

OPAs Give Rinehart Partial Suspension

The Lincoln Market, 665 E. State st., was given a 15-day suspension, effective May 29, from dealing in processed foods, canned fish, canned meat, canned milk and rationed fats and oils, in an order issued today by Frederic S. Glover, Jr., of Cleveland, chief hearing commissioner of the Office of Price Administration.

The store, of which Omar Rinehart is president and manager, was charged by OPA enforcement officials with selling and offering for sale many rationed items at over-ceiling prices. According to OPA, Rinehart admitted selling canned baby foods, canned vegetables and fruits and other articles at from one to eight cents above ceiling prices.

The order issued today resulted from a hearing given Rinehart May 1 in Cleveland.

DRESS REHEARSAL

The new and powerful offensive in Italy is dress rehearsal for the big show which may start at any hour. It is the preview of allied might as revised to incorporate lessons learned in the earlier campaigning against the Germans below Rome.

Experiences at Salerno, at Cassino and at Anzio were costly but they taught the British and American commanders many things about modern war and especially of the capabilities and the shortcomings of bombardment from land and from the air in blasting a path for the infantryman who gains the final victory.

They learned at Cassino, for example, that bombing may defeat its own purpose by causing such a tangle of ruin that mechanized units are blocked by the effectiveness of their own supporting arms. At Anzio they learned that while an army on the offensive stops to consolidate its gains, the defensive enemy is given valuable time to strengthen its own position.

Success of early phases of the renewed drive indicates that strategy has been amended to overcome the shortcomings of the earlier plans.

The Italian campaign is important for its own results. Success will relieve pressure on an allied army of considerable size, will reduce the enemy strength and will give bases nearer to Germany and open the way for assault through the Balkans if that is included in the grand strategy. It is equally as important in upsetting the nerves of the enemy to whom there is always the possibility that this may be the main show after all.

CHINA'S HOUR OF CRISIS

Blackest spot in the entire war picture today is China where the Japanese seem to have launched a major campaign in an effort to knock war-weary China out of the war. They are meeting with success which produces a grave situation.

The Chinese have been fighting longer than any other of the United Nations and against odds which might have defeated any other people. Suffering always from lack of modern arms, shortage of food, almost total lack of air support, facing inflation at home and with only uncertain liaison between the forces of Chiang Kai Shek and the important Communist army, they have done well but the military odds have always been against them.

Their allies, and especially the United States, have recognized the importance of China in the general war picture and the urgency of aid to the Chinese armies but the obstacles have been almost unsurmountable and there is grave question whether help can be brought in time to do any real good.

Military experts are agreed that air bases in China are essential to the most effective and the quickest way of defeating Japan. Should the enemy overrun the most of China, as now seems possible, the road to Tokyo will be longer and more costly.

Chiang Kai Shek has had assurance of goodwill and moral support during all of his long struggle but that is not enough. Planes and guns and tanks are his need for words have never stopped a Japanese army. Unless some way can be found for getting these supplies to him, the task of the allied armies and navies will be multiplied and months or even years may be added to the length of the war.

THEY KNOW WHERE THEY STAND

If the latest pronouncement of selective service means what it seems to say, every man will know about where he stands in relation to the draft. It is the most clearest statement of policy to come out of Washington in relation to army calls since the selective service act became operative.

It says in effect that men between the ages of 18 and 26 can prepare to put on a uniform, that those between 26 and 30 are reasonably secure in their present employment if they can show that they are essential jobs necessary to war supporting activities and that men past 30 years of age are fairly sure to be left undisturbed if they are working at almost any kind of a useful job.

The amount of time and efficiency which has been lost because men did not know how to plan their future and the amount of worry which has been caused prospective draftees and their families in the past cannot be estimated. Hundreds of thousands have been unable to map the program of their private lives because they did not know when the draft board would reach out for them.

The new order will dispel much of this uncertainty. Men who know they are to stay on their jobs will be better workers and men under 26 will know that they better get their affairs in shape for their turn in the armed forces. Of course, selective service has demonstrated an all too frequent readiness to change rulings and interpretations. It looks, however, as if this one may stick.

WAR INSIDE GERMANY

One of the crucial battles of the war has been going on for weeks inside Germany. It is the campaign of Allied bombs against the Nazi secret and military police with the morale of the German people as the prize.

Germany is sick of war which has devastated most of the cities and killed hundreds of thousands of its citizens. Neutral observers bring out convincing evidence of this war-weariness which grows daily as the people see more proof that Hitler has no defense against this terror from the skies.

Terroristic methods of the gestapo hold the civilian population in line but their task becomes more difficult with each raid. If it reaches the point where devastation by day and by night becomes worse than the threat of the guns of Hitler's police, the war may quite possibly be ended inside the reich by the German people themselves.

THE STARS SAY:

For Tuesday, May 16

ALTHOUGH THERE is omen of a sudden upsetting and disruptive force to contend with, according to the lunar transits, yet there are offsetting signs showing that with concentrated effort, diligence, patience and perseverance, all deep rooted dangers and disturbances may be sidestepped. This accomplished there may be surprising gains of radical importance, with much activity and pleasure in business as well as private life. Use the stimulated energies and substantial resources and background and all may be of enduring benefit.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of rather definite achievements, with solid returns for efforts well directed and resources and energies shrewdly utilized, in the face of a sudden disrupting or devastating combination of circumstances. Making changes, new plans or seeking fresh objectives should be done with sagacity. A concentrated marshalling of the forces, energies and resources should bring enduring and worthwhile results built upon solid foundations. In private affairs there may be surprising turns to romance or to happiness, but be discreet, and avoid all forms of extravagance, or eccentricities.

A child born on this day should have many solid traits of character and practical ability, with energy and creative power. It will be kindly and congenial.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Early Studies In Local Anaesthesia

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WE GO ALONG making lists of foods that are "good for you"—such, notably, as carrots and spinach and milk. The question arises are any foods bad for you? Of course I don't mean frankly poisonous substances that may be eaten as foods by mistake, such as foodstuffs for mushrooms; or contaminated foods, such as cans that have botulism, or uncured meats that have trichina, or plain food poisoning from foods infected with germs. I mean good food that we eat regularly. Do any such common foods cause disease?

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only and then only through his column.

Well, several have been accused from time to time. Tomatoes and cancer is one combination which we can dismiss as purely a mistake in statistics and reasoning. Just because a neighbor down the street used to eat lots of tomatoes and then came down with cancer is no proof.

Meat and salt, however, have come in for accusations that have some basis, and demand consideration. Meat, so the accusation runs, is not one of Nature's foods. Ergo when we eat it we are going against Nature and will suffer. Many doctors prohibit meat to their patients who have Bright's disease, high blood pressure, arthritis and gout, so by an argument equally fallacious it is concluded that meat causes these diseases. Personally I am convinced that meat does not cause any disease and that it is a wholesome and valuable and harmless part of man's diet. But there is any evidence for or against this view?

Meat and Blood Pressure

So far as the relationship between meat eating and high blood pressure, hardening of the arteries and Bright's disease is concerned, we have, for instance, the evidence of Dr. William A. Thomas, who accompanied the McMillan Arctic Expedition and, with their diet in mind, examined a group of Eskimos. All Eskimos live practically entirely on meat from the time they are weaned. Babies are nursed by the mothers for four to six years until their teeth are strong enough to eat meat.

Dr. Thomas examined 142 adults between the ages of forty and sixty years. Of these only three had blood pressures which an American life insurance company would consider too high. In a group of nine Eskimos over sixty years of age none had a blood pressure over 140. Evidence of kidney or Bright's disease was present in only 13 of a group of 202 Eskimos over sixty years of age. This is below the average of most of our population who live on a mixed diet.

Dr. Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the Arctic explorer, offered to live in the climate of New York and eat an exclusively meat diet. He was examined regularly by physicians expert in such diseases and after two years there was no change in his blood pressure, no evidence of increased hardening of the arteries and no evidence of kidney damage in his urine.

Salt Not Harmful

Salt is another article of diet about which similar accusations have been made. The idea started in 1904 when Ambard and Beaulard, two French physicians, stated that blood pressure was influenced by the amount of salt in the diet. For a long time after this any unfortunate person who was found to have a blood pressure one millimeter over normal was not allowed to have enough salt to help get up a decent sweat. There is no record that this regimen ever did anybody any good. Later Berger and Feinberg, in a carefully controlled series of experiments, proved that blood pressure was not influenced to any appreciable extent either by removing salt from the diet, or adding it in excessive amount. A regular intake of salt is one of the basic necessities of animal life. Any excess you may take does no harm, but is excreted leaving no trace.

3. those who are forced to walk.

BEFORE THIS WAR IS OVER, there may be only two kinds of people in America...

If you want to be in the fortunate group who will still be riding to work in automobiles, join Gulf's "Anti-Breakdown" Club today. How do you do it? Just come in for Gulf's Protective Maintenance Plan!

This plan was conceived by experts in car care. Gulf developed it because car maintenance is a most important civilian job.

IT'S IMPORTANT to give your car a good motor oil and change regularly. Gulf offers two outstanding oils... Gulfgrade, "The World's Finest Motor Oil," and Gulfbube, an extra-quality oil costing a few cents less.

AIR FILTER and spark-plug cleaning, and radiator flushing help give better gas mileage. A clean air filter makes gas burn more economically; clean plugs increase power; a clean radiator prevents overheating.

GULF'S Protective Maintenance Plan includes Gulf Registered Lubrication which reaches up to 39 vital points with six different Gulf Lubricants that reduce wear, and lengthen your car's life.

Dr. Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the Arctic explorer, offered to live in the climate of New York and eat an exclusively meat diet. He was examined regularly by physicians expert in such diseases and after two years there was no change in his blood pressure, no evidence of increased hardening of the arteries and no evidence of kidney damage in his urine.

A Model is Murdered - BABS LEE

CHAPTER ELEVEN

The assistant cameraman, Paul, was a short fellow. He was in his shirt sleeves and was staring at the girl through the ground glass in the camera.

"Turn your face a little more to the right," he commanded. "That's it. Now that left hand, can't you make it more graceful?" The girl flexed a bare arm and tried another posture.

"No, not like that. You haven't got a Charlie horse, have you? You look like you was rubbin' on liniment!"

The blonde straightened up, indignantly, and put her hands on her hips.

"Don't bark at me like that, Paul! I'm get nervous and spoil your shot. Now's this?" Again she reached over and grasped the top of her stocking with both hands. She was a vision of loveliness, Argus thought. Beads of perspiration stood out on her forehead.

"That's worse than ever!" rasped the cameraman. "You're too tense! Relax, will you? You don't hafta work that hard to pull on a stocking. Look—turn this way a little. No—that's too much. Now, cross your legs a little higher. No—hold your legs this way. Paul stepped over to the dais and lifted her leg to the desired angle, then he moved the arm nearest the camera backward a trifle.

"Now," he said. That don't look so much like a cow." He returned to the camera.

"Hold it, now! Paul commanded. "Smile! You haven't gotta run in it. You're supposed to like the way the stockings look. It's pretty, isn't it?"

The blonde's face registered an expression of pleased surprise.

"Swell!" he said. "Now, just hold the stocking top with the tips of your fingers, not your whole hand. That's it! Good! Now!"

"Tough way to make a living, eh?" Argus asked Grange.

"It don't seem quite decent to me," the Inspector shook his head dubiously. "Running around half naked!"

"O.K. Steady now! I'm gonna take it," Paul slid a holder into the camera and squeezed a rubber ball he held in his hand that was linked to the camera by a long cord. "That's all for that," he told the girl. "Next!" he called.

The girl jumped off the platform and disappeared into the dressing room, as another took her place.

"Next" was a dark-haired girl with an oval face and very white skin. She was wearing a dress of gold lame that clung tightly to her figure. Paul helped her up on the platform.

"I'd like to paint her," Grange whispered. "She's a honey!"

The corner where Argus and the Inspector were standing was dark, and so far they had remained unobserved. The camera man had his back to them most of the time and the model, though facing them, was staring into the bright lights. She too had taken her seat on the dais, and pulling up the hem of her evening gown to a point above the knee, she thrust one stocking limb outward and posed in the act of fastening her garter.

"That's good," said the camera man. "Just hold that." He changed the lighting effects. "Now, lean over a little more. More still!"

"Takes quite a bit of electrical efficiency will be recognized in these new fields regardless of sex." But the story of the outlook for women after the war does not end there. What lies before the millions of home-makers who constitute the greatest women group of all?

Sees Big Problem

"They face a big problem," said the famous novelist, Fannie Hurst, when I asked her opinion on the subject. "After the war, women will have to make a home for a different male universe. Men who have been in service are going to come home with different ideas and ideals. They will be skeptical and embittered. They have seen other civilizations and they are not coming back the same. This will bring a changed point of view into the home."

"So women will have to be on their toes and ready for the change. If they are not, they will be bewildered and out of it. Women can't shut themselves within four walls any more. They must take an active part in the communities in which they live."

CAN WOMEN HOLD WARTIME GAINS?

Post-war Outlook Is Discussed by Three National Leaders

By ADELAIDE KERR
AP Features Writer

What is the outlook for women after the war?

Will there still be a place for women in industry, when we are no longer in need of bombers and guns?

What is the prospect for business and professional women?

What problems will the home-maker face?

Those questions are agitating a lot of people these days. So I laid them before three experts and got some very interesting answers.

Consider the problem of women in industry first.

Ellen M. Davies, personnel director of the Waterbury, Conn., manufacturing plant of Chase Brass & Copper Co., and consultant to Army Service Forces on the employment of civilian women in Army installations, expects to see thousands of women still working in industry after the war.

"And I don't think these women will supplant men in keeping their jobs, either," she told me when I questioned her on the subject. "We are going to have such a complete revision of our way of life after the war that both men and women will be needed to produce new goods. There will be new kinds of houses, new equipment to run them, and consequently more leisure for women. There will be shorter hours for workers and more people working. In the reconversion job ahead, women will have a place because of the many kinds of jobs they have learned to do in this war."

Post-war Outlook

Now what of the outlook for business and professional women after the war?

"It looks as though women would have great opportunities," said Miss Bess Bloodworth, vice-president of Namm's Store, Brooklyn, and a member of the Women's Advisory committee of the War Manpower Commission. "Thousands of women have taken advantage of the opportunities which this war offered them. Now they are accepted in fields where they rarely worked before. After the war there will be more women chemists, engineers and draughtsmen, more women heading educational programs and running their own businesses. Women should have big opportunities in the fields of nutrition and housing too. There may be the old tendency to replace women with men but let us hope that their

Dogs of War Help Planes Bomb Nazis

(By Associated Press)

LONDON — Night after night American Air Force and RAF bombers shuffled across the channel and unerringly bombed secret key fortifications in a small fishing village near the Belgian city of Ostend guided by the ingenious signals of natives, reveals the Belgian Relief Society, a member agency of the National War Fund.

The Nazis clamped down iron curfews and hundreds of soldiers conducted a nightly census of the inhabitants but still the raids went on without a bomb dropped on unimportant targets.

One night just as Allied planes neared the coast, a German patrol spotted a flashlight streaking down the beach at incredible speed toward a new big gun emplacement. The bombers changed their course and just as the soldiers fired and the light dropped to the sand, bombs struck the target on the nose.

Later the Germans found a Belgian shepherd dog, a flashlight strapped to his back. An inhabitant had let him out to make by night the runs he was trained to do by day.

IF I had known that some Americans would be using pockets to hold all the extra money they're making these days I never would have invented them.

POCKETS are good places to keep hands warm. Pockets are good places to hold keys... and loose change for carfare and newspapers.

But pockets are no place for any kind of money except actual expense money these days.

The place—the only place—for money above living expenses is in War Bonds.

Bonds buy bullets for soldiers.

Bonds buy security for your old age.

Bonds buy education for your kids.

Bonds buy things you'll need later—that you can't buy now.

Bonds buy peace of mind—knowing that your money is in the fight.

Reach into the pocket I invented. Take out all that extra cash. Invest it in interest-bearing War Bonds.

You'll make me very happy if you do.

You'll be happy too.

Rural Life Sunday Is Observed by Grange

Goshen grange was host Sunday afternoon to the Bunker Hill and the Concord churches, when a program observing Rural Life Sunday and Mother's day was presented at the Goshen grange hall.

A basket dinner at 1:30 was attended by nearly 100 persons.

Mrs. Helen Miskimins, lecturer of Goshen grange, presided over a program in which all three organizations participated.

Rev. H. E. Stout, pastor of the Bunker Hill church, spoke on rural life, emphasizing that the Bible is a rural book, and that the grange includes the entire family. He stressed the need of preparation for the post war period, when millions of men and women will be returned to normal life, and urged that there be no relaxation of religious and moral standards.

Other numbers on the program included a welcome by William Miskimins, master of Goshen grange; group singing in charge of Miss Naomi Shinn; "A Boy's Tribute to Mother," by Albert Capel; vocal solos, Misses Naomi Shinn and Priscilla Beery; trumpet solo, Robert Marty; exercise, "Mother's Helpers," by four juvenile grangers; piano solo, Miss Martha Weingart; readings, Miss Marilyn Weingart and Mrs. Helen Miskimins.

It was announced that the next regular meeting of Goshen grange will be held Thursday evening, May 18, to avoid conflict with the graduating exercises at Goshen High schools at Damascus.

Ellsworth grange will be host at a county grange banquet June 16.

COLUMBIANA PLANS MEMORIAL PROGRAM

With District Men In The Service

Alfred Henry August of R. D. 1, Salem, who is with the armed forces in Europe, has been promoted from sergeant to staff sergeant.

Harry C. Westfall, son of Mrs. Julia Koons of the Benton rd., and Harry P. Elsner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry O. Elsner, 1133 Maple st., were promoted to the rate of hospital apprentice second class in last week's graduation ceremonies at the Hospital Corps school at the U. S. Naval Hospital, Great Lakes, Ill. The bluejackets will continue to train at other naval hospitals before being sent to duty at sea or at other shore stations.

Staff Sgt. William R. McGaffick, 551 E. Fourth st., waist gunner on a four-engine Liberator bomber at an AAF Liberator station in England, has recently been awarded the Air Medal for participation in bombing missions over occupied Europe from an East Anglian base. He is a member of the oldest Liberator unit in the Eighth Air force. In addition to the latest award, Sgt. McGaffick also wears the Distinguished Unit ribbon, the organization having won a citation from the War department for its role in the historic battle of Ploesti on Aug. 1, 1943.

Pvt. Wayne W. Ward, son of William D. Ward, R. D. 2, Salem, is stationed at an Air Force Service command station somewhere in England, where he has participated in a course designed to bridge the gap between training in the States and soldiering in an active theater of war. His next station will be one from which America's fighting planes take off to smash the Nazi war machine.

New Garden Event Is Attended by 60

A Mother-Daughter tea given Friday evening at the New Garden Sunday school was attended by about 60 women. A program of songs, tableaux and readings was presented by the daughters of the classes taught by Miss Lucille Batzli, Mrs. Roy Sanor and Mrs. Alfred Stoudt.

Mrs. Lorin Immel, guest speaker, discussed the work of her daughter, Edna Mae Immel, a mission nurse in the Kentucky mountain section.

A poem, "Memories," written by Richard Wilson S.K. 2/c, was read.

Gifts were presented to Mrs. Laura Speidel, oldest mother; Mrs. Homer Messer, youngest mother; Mrs. Loren Immel, oldest daughter; Sandra Heuze, youngest daughter; Mrs. Marion Wilson and Mrs. Emmet Smith, mother with the largest number of daughters; Mrs. Ed. Cwera, smallest mother; Mrs. Laura Speidel, mother with four generations of her family.

An interesting exhibit of souvenirs of girlhood days was held by the group, including pictures, handwork from India and quilts. The prize for the most interesting was given for a baby dress, 77 years old, worn by the late Mrs. Emma London.

The church was decorated with spring flowers and the table was centered with tulips and bridal wreath and lighted by yellow candles. Misses Lucille Batzli and Betty Anne Smith presided. Favors were May baskets filled with narcissus.

WASHINGTON, May 15.—Supporters of a bill to outlaw state poll taxes in federal elections, aware that they cannot muster the two-thirds margin needed for a motion to limit debate, strove today for at least a majority vote on the cloture proposal.
Sen. Mead (D-NY) said the success of future attempts to bring up the controversial poll tax bill may depend on the number of votes the cloture petition receives.
Opponents of the anti-poll tax measure are expected to start action to pigeon-hole the bill immediately after the cloture vote.

WAR BOND HOLDERS

The average war worker has accumulated enough cash to support him over three months of unemployment without cashing in his war bonds, Rep. Harness (R-Ind) found in a survey of employees in 50 plants.

Harness asked the workers if they would be obliged to sell the bonds, and how soon, if they became jobless. Ninety per cent replied they would have to cash the securities within from one week to two years. The average was three months. Harness said 89 per cent of the workers believe it would be wrong for government-owned plants to

LEETONIA, May 15.—The annual Junior-Senior prom was held at the High school building Saturday evening with members of the Senior class, the High school faculty, the board of education and their wives as guests.

The Patron-Teachers association served dinner for 100. Joseph Jeswald, president of the Junior class, was toastmaster. Margaret Rankin, a junior, welcomed the Seniors and their guests. Clifford Aiken, president of the Senior class, responded. Miss Rankin and Shirley Holt gave a piano duet. James L. McBride, principal of the High school, F. R. Narragon, superintendent of schools and Edward Duke, a Junior, also gave short talks.

Following the dinner, the group danced to the music of Ted Ross' orchestra in the gym which was beautifully decorated to represent "an old fashioned garden."

Leetonia chapter, No. 253, O. E. S., will present a Flag day program in the Masonic temple following the regular meeting this evening. Members of the chapter attended church services at St. Paul's Lutheran church Sunday morning.

Charles Cope, U. S. N., Norfolk, Va., is spending a seven-day leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Cope, south of town.

WPB Eases Restrictions On Class A Coal Stokers

W. W. Tolerton of the Citizens Ice & Coal Co. has received word from the Iron Fireman Mfg. Co., that the WPB has simplified the restrictions controlling the distribution of Class A coal stokers.

Under the new ruling, Class A stokers may be sold, without specific authorization, to fill orders for the Army and Navy, and for approved installation in projects authorized by preference ratings regularly assigned to war housing and other construction projects.

Now, if WPB has granted approval for the construction of a building which has a stoker included in its specifications, and has assigned preference ratings for the materials required in that building, that preference rating may be used for the purchase of a stoker without any other authorization from WPB.

STATE'S LARGEST DISTRICT MEET IN SALEM SATURDAY

Akron North Looms Best: Salem Rated Second Of 20 Teams

The Northeastern Ohio District track and field meet—generally the largest district affair in the state—will be held at Reilly field Saturday, starting at 9 a. m. and continuing until the finals have been run off in the evening.

Last year's meet had an entry list of some 18 teams and Manager Fred Cope expects at least that many again this year and probably a few more. Coach Rib Allen's Boardman squad came out on top of the meet in 1943 by just one point, nosing out the powerful Akron North squad which will again be favored to win this season.

North, by virtue of its win over Akron East and Salem at the Canton relays two weeks ago, will be odds-on favorites to score the highest tally. The Quakers, though they finished third at Canton, will be out to get up at least a notch in the rankings by nosing out Akron East. Cope believes Salem should have done that at Canton and is sure his athletes can accomplish it this week.

All first and second place winners will qualify for the state meet in Columbus on May 26 and 27. The relay teams placing in that order also earn their way to Columbus. Likely qualifiers for Salem are Charlie Dunlap, Frank Enriksen, Tony Hoover, Bob Shea, Ed Ferko, and possibly the two regular relay teams. There will also be a shuttle relay and a medley relay run.

Records for the district event aren't going to be easily broken. They stand a fair chance of being bettered as some of the state's best and fastest athletes will be here Saturday, but a glance over the list will show there's hard to touch.

Dawn Society Aids Blind Men To See World Once Again

By BONNIE WILEY

SAN FRANCISCO — A clearing house for corneas, San Francisco's unique Dawn society, is swept off its feet these days with about 1,000 letters a month from donors who want to pledge their eyes, after death, that the blind may see—and from the blind, themselves, groping toward a new-found ray of hope.

The Dawn society was organized in 1939 in the belief that sight could be restored to many of the blind if a successful corneal transplant operation could be performed.

The cornea is the transparent part of the eyeball coat over the iris and pupil which admits light to the interior. Through an intricate operation, corneas can be transplanted from one eye to another.

Sponsored by the Grand California Lodge of the International Order of Good Templars, the non-profit society has one purpose—to secure pledges of eyes, after the death of donors, for eye surgeons and eye hospitals registered on its rolls. It also keeps a file of blind patients who might be benefited by operation.

"The corneal transplant will not restore sight in all cases," pointed out O. A. Springfield, the society treasurer. "There are about 200,000 blind in the nation who might be cured by the operation. We require an examination by an eye specialist before any blind applicant is admitted to our rolls."

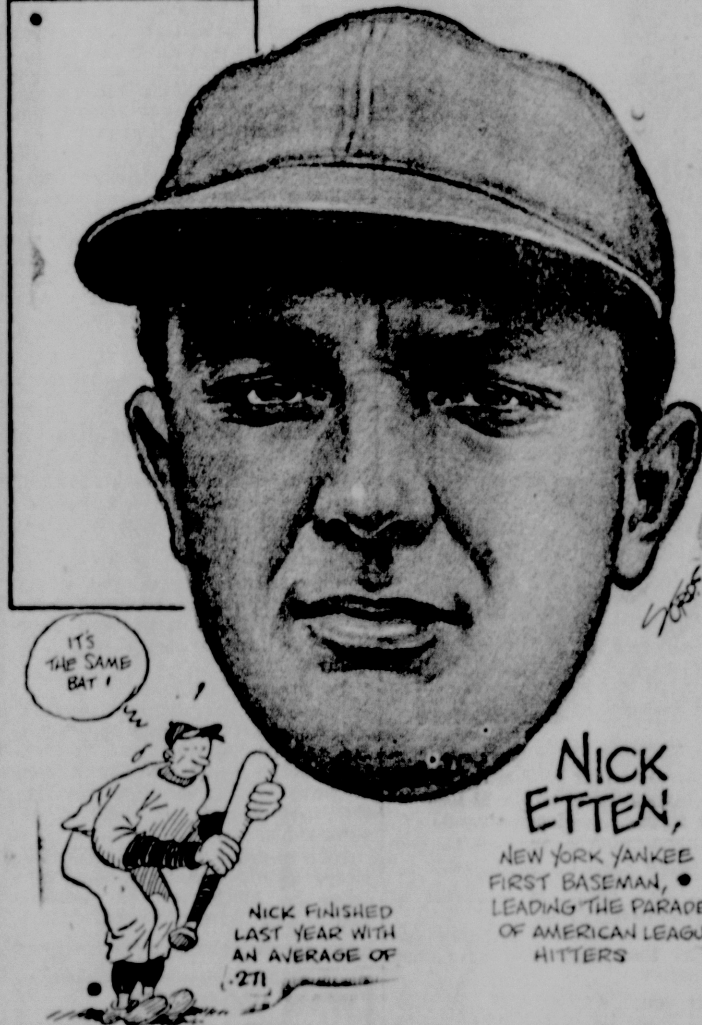

Hundreds of pledges have been obtained. More are needed.

One letter came from a 14-year-old girl. "When I die I want my eyes to go to a blind person," she wrote.

She received a pledge card by return mail with the fervent wish that her pledge would not be carried out for a long, long time to come.

Texan Says Apostle Paul Was Lover Of Athletics

BY HAROLD V. RATLIFF

AP Features

BRYAN, Tex.—The Rev. Milton R. (Mit) Maloney uses sports to further religion and vice versa. His is a triple play—sports editor of the Bryan Daily Eagle and pastor of two small Baptist churches. It is a happy combination, and interest builder for both newspaper and pulpit.

Once a week he devoted his column "Goal Lines" to a religious discourse in which he uses the feats of athletics to drive home his points in favor of the Lord.

He has found that sports played a large part in the lives of the people who wrote, and were written about, in the Master Book.

The field of sports is a rich source for illustration in sermons, says comments upon Christian living," he says from his newspaper desk. "Introducing this feature I said, 'Sports is merely boiling down the game of life to a few hours of game competition. Many of life's lessons are in the games we play.'"

A great sports enthusiast in Biblical history was the Apostle Paul, he says. And it is largely from Paul's writings that the Rev. Maloney fashions the homilies that have made him unique among the men who follow sportdom's glittering trail.

He comments: "Paul spoke of training in Hebrews 12:1 like this. Let us lay aside every weight, and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us."

Animals that are symbols of sport—the Longhorns of Texas, the Broncos of Bryan High—all have Biblical references, the Rev. Maloney observes. Take the Longhorn—"The cattle of upon a thousand hills are mine, saith the Lord." Then the Bronco—"It takes a good man to tame a wild horse but only God can conquer a wild man."

Preaches Bible Sports

He tells of the spectators, the umpires, the awards, the men who strive for athletic glory:

Spectators — Hebrews 12:1, "Wherefore seeing we also are compassed with so great a cloud of witnesses."

Umpires—Second Timothy 4:8, "A crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous Judge, shall give me."

The awards — First Corinthians 9:24-25 (the chapter of pine leaves at Corinth stadiums). "Know ye not that they which run in a race run all, but one receiveth the prize? x x x Now they do it to obtain a corruptible crown; but we an incorruptible."

To strive—Second Timothy 2:3, "And if a man also strive for masteries, yet is he now crowned, except he strive lawfully."

The Rev. Maloney writes of boxing in Biblical times by quoting First Corinthians 9:26, "So fight I, not as one that beateth the air." In telling of a track meet in which Texas A. and M. College got the most first places yet lost, he says: "Christian victory depends as much on the second, third and fourth runners as on the mighty men who set the pace. It isn't individual honor but the glory of God for which we strive. The boy who jogs in third or fourth is still adding up points for his team."

The minister was shepherding his flock following graduation from the Southwestern Baptist Seminary in 1942 when the Eagle lost its sports editor. Mrs. Lee J. Rountree, publisher of the paper, offered the Rev. Maloney the job with the understanding that it would not interfere with his church work. But he wasn't a green hand at writing by any means. He was graduated in journalism from Baylor University in 1933 and worked on newspapers at Mexia and Gladewater, Tex.

Utah Cage Coach Claims Team Won Title By Losing

By LOUDON KELLY

AP Features

SALT LAKE CITY—Deepthinking Coach Vadal Peterson raised his head from a six-fathom study and announced that his surprising Utah basketball team won the NCAA basketball championship and the mythical world's title by losing.

Let's repeat that for the benefit of those who didn't catch it the first time. He said they won by losing.

In fact the coach feels that it was the Utes' worst defeat of the season—a 54-39 whipping by the Salt Lake City airbase team—that "really made out ball club."

"It was a morale-builder. Instead of a discouragement," said the earnest, quiet Peterson, 25 years a basketball coach and hoop teacher at Utah the last 17. "We learned then the lesson about capitalizing on our mistakes."

Defeats Educational
Learn their lesson they did, for it proved to be a simple matter for the Utes to beat Colorado College for the Rocky Mountain championship.

But the course in basketball tactics wasn't completed with the first shellacking of the Utes. Lesson II came in the first round of the Madison Square Garden invitation tourney, when the Utes were slammed down by Kentucky 46 to 38.

"This Kentucky team more than any other we faced all season, showed us how to readjust ourselves to our opponents and to developing situations."

So, with two failures as valuable background material, the Utes rolled along to a 42-40 victory over Dartmouth in the NCAA title game and a 43-38 win over St. John's of Brooklyn in the Red Cross benefit contest for the unofficial championship of the world.

Second Winners
Utah thereby became the second team from the Rocky mountain Wyoming won the same crowns twice to win the double honors in 1943.

Don't get the impression that any team that loses to Salt Lake City alibis and Kentucky automatically wins the pennants.

Aside from willingness to profit by mistakes, the coach remarked, "the biggest asset of our team I think, was its ability to control rebounds off both backboards."

"And all of the boys can jump. They have the ability to shoot, too, especially one-handers. If the opposition let them get set they really could hit. And if they were rushed then would drive in for shots. That gave us balanced offense."

"We also showed the East something about defense. Those long arms seemed to be slinging in all directions all the time. Another thing about this team was its outstanding fight. They never gave up even when six or eight points behind."

Youth Useful
Peterson acknowledged that the extreme youth of his champion knocked some of the props from under the belief that competitive experience is necessary for winning college basketball teams.

"If you have a combination of kids that works together as this one did, you often are better off than with a team that features two or three old heads but other players that don't pull with them so well."

"My first six players worked so well together that any one of them was potentially dangerous as a scorer. In the years I've coached basketball, I never had a gang that showed such united effort and worked so hard to help one another along. Never any friction or jealousy."

The Ute youngsters, their coach feels, hadn't even reached their peak of perfection when they won the titles.

Deaths Caused by Autos

Exceeded by Fatal Falls

NEW YORK—Slippery floors are more often fatal to women than men, but the male is more susceptible to a tumble on the stairs, according to statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

Altogether, the statisticians say, falls were the leading cause of death in the United States in 1943. Their 25,000 fatalities outstripped those of automobile accidents by 2,000.

Most of the fatalities from stair and floor stumbling—which account for more than half of all fall fatalities—were among men and women over 65. But every age group has its particular hazard.

Under five years, tumbles from beds, windows and porches head the list. As the boy grows—and climbs—he is more apt to kill himself in a fall from a diving board, a tree or a roof.

Between 15 and 64, fall fatalities among men are most often traceable to industrial hazards—ladders, scaffolds and other building construction particularly.

Steve Messer, Cincinnati third baseman, first played organized ball with Ponca City of the Western Association when he was only 16.

Class A Teams Go Into Action Tonight; Class B Games Delayed

Class A city softball will get underway at 6 p. m. today when the Salem Chinas meet the Monks aggregation at Centennial park in the first of a two-game bill.

In the second game, at 7, the Salem News squad will tangle with a new aggregation made up of High school players. Pitching for the Paxsons team will be Paul Horning and the News probably will use Fred Cope.

Francis Lanney, veteran hurler from last year's A league, will face the always-difficult Dale Ritchie, who is doing the mound work for the Salem China club this season.

Games for tomorrow will see Monks in action again for the second straight day. In the first frascus, the championship Recreation squad will face Mullins at 6 p. m. and Demings will meet Monks at 7.

Kelley said today that Class B games will not be started until at least one and possibly more teams are added to the roster. Five entries are now listed but Kelley is holding up the schedule until at least six teams are booked.

REDS BEAT BRAVES

AS HIT IN EIGHTH SPOILS DREAM WIN

Yanks and Cards Tighten Respective Grips On League Leads

By TED MEIER

Bucky Walters, star righthander for the Cincinnati Reds, yesterday just missed becoming the first pitcher in 22 years to hurl a perfect game in the major leagues. He pitched to only 28 batters.

Working the first game of a twin bill against the Boston Braves at Crosley field, Walters retired the first 23 men to face him. Then, with two out in the eighth, Connie Ryan, Braves second sacker, singled over third base, the only Boston player to get on base.

It was the nearest to a perfect game in the majors since Charley Robertson of the Chicago White Sox turned the trick against Detroit April 30, 1922.

Walters won his one-hitter, 4 to 0, for his fifth straight win, but Ira Hutchinson kept the Reds from sweeping the bargain bill. He scattered eight hits for a 6 to 0 Brave triumph in the nightcap.

The New York Yankees and St. Louis Cardinals tightened their grip on first place in the American and National leagues, respectively. The Yankees beat Cleveland twice, 4 to 3 in 13 innings and 8-4 before 41,618 paid at the Yankee stadium, the largest crowd of the 1944 season.

The Cardinals won the second game of a twin bill against the St. Louis Browns, 4 to 3 in 12 innings and 2 to 0. The double win put the A's back in the first division.

Washington split with the Chicago White Sox. Dutch Leonard whitewashed the Sox in the opener 4 to 0. A ninth inning rally won the nightcap for Chicago, 6 to 4.

Brooklyn beat the Chicago Cubs, 4 to 2, in the first game of a bargain bill before 32,166, but lost the second, 8 to 7.

SPORT CHATTER

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, May 15.—Looks like there's a slight football war brewing... It seems the New American league on the Pacific coast has been dickering with a new players who are under contract to National League clubs... That, of course, would "outlaw" the athletes for five years but it may be that some of them are shopping around to see if the risk is worth taking.

The Sporting News has begun a campaign against ten-cent scorecards unless they are better and more informative than the old nickel ones... Notre Dame's newest "T" formation discovery is Joe Gasparella, 17-year-old freshman from Vandergriff, Pa. who was a center until Ed McKeever saw him pitching the ball during spring practice and made him a quarterback... North Carolina, which had 31 professional baseball clubs before the war, doesn't have even one this year.

A ROOKIE A DAY
Ed Lopat, White Sox pitcher: Full name Edmund Lopatynski... A New York boy, he was one of 12 players who made good out of 1,000 who participated in a Dodger baseball school in 1936... Was sent to Elmira as a first baseman but two years later decided he was a pitcher... Proved it last season by leading Southern association with a 3.05 earned run average and winning 19 games for Little Rock.

OHIO WHEAT CROP MAY SET RECORD

Bumper Crop of 43,964,000 Bushels Predicted By State Service

(By Associated Press) COLUMBUS, May 15—Ohio winter wheat growers probably will harvest 43,964,000 bushels this year, compared with only 28,433,000 last season, the State Cooperative Crop Reporting service announced.

Conditions May 1 indicated a yield of 21.5 bushels an acre, against 16.5 bushels in 1943, the service said, and attributed the gain largely to favorable winter and spring weather and increased acreage.

An estimated 2,044,000 acres will be harvested this year, a 28 per cent increase over 1943's 1,602,000 acres, said the survey issued over the weekend.

"Although considerable wheat was planted quite late last fall and had made but little growth when winter set in," the report said, "the winter and early spring were favorable to the crop."

Ohio's anticipated rye crop is expected to be only 672,000 bushels, compared with last year's 1,140,000 bushels. Only 42,000 acres will be harvested in 1944, the service reported, against 76,000 acres last year, although the per-acre yield is expected to be 16 bushels, compared with 15 in 1943.

The state's maple syrup yield this spring was estimated at 280,000 gallons, compared with 193,000 gallons last season, although only 747,000 trees were tapped, against 786,000 in 1943.

Milk production per cow in herds of Ohio crop reporters averaged 16.1 pounds last May 1, a drop from 16.9 the previous year and 16.4 for the 10-year average on that date.

Stocks of hay on Ohio farms May 1 were 316,000 tons, compared with 348,000 tons on that date a year ago, and 371,000 tons for the 1933-42 average.

Ohio egg production last month aggregated 338,000,000, compared with 316,000,000 for April, 1943.

even find the patients eager to arrange them and distribute them throughout the buildings.

Afford Entertainment
On the last trip to Deshon by the Salem group, William F. Ross gave a magic show in one of the wards. A hundred or more patients in the cardiac ward, plus some 200 others who could be wheeled, moved, or carried into the room, enjoyed the entertainment which was arranged by Charles Fox.

Two weeks ago the local chapter received a telephone call from Camp Reynolds asking for two catchers mitts, six hard baseballs and three fielders gloves. Within a matter of a few hours the equipment was on its way to the hospital where able-bodied patients have organized outdoor activities.

Last year the local chapter made and filled 1,440 kit bags for Army and Navy and now workers are starting on a second consignment for the Army. At the cost of one dollar each, the bags are made and filled with a pocket-size book, sewing kit, stationery, pencils, playing cards, candy mints, heavy shoe-laces, shoe shine kits, toothpaste and brush, cigarette, soap and soap-dish and razor blades. Given to men as they embark, they are the last gifts they receive in their homeland, they serve to supply them with articles they might otherwise do without for a long time.

Local Workers Needed
Local workers have completed and sent to Deshon and Reynolds 21 afghans, in addition to many helmets, sweaters, mufflers and other knitted articles. Work is progressing on new quotas.

The Salem chapter secretary has received letters from many servicemen overseas expressing their appreciation for the kit bags they received when they left the country. Among the latest received were notes from Sgt. George E. Sexton, Jr., Btry A, 149th Field Artillery battalion, in New Guinea; Pfc. Leon R. O'Ponski, Btry B; Pvt. F. Jankowski, Btry B; Sgt. Johnny Byers, Btry B, all of the 149th Field Artillery battalion, all somewhere in the South Pacific.

Workers are urgently needed, officers report, on the production staff and in surgical dressings. Information about the work may be secured from the Red Cross chapter office in the Memorial building.

southeast of Ausonia was by-passed and surrounded and other heights beyond were seized.

The only sector of the offensive front where the fighting died down was northwest of Cassino where the Poles had attacked heavily on the two preceding days.

Prolonged Battle Seen
It was reported officially that the enemy hastily was reinforcing his defenses against the Poles and moving up to other reinforcements also for a prolonged battle along the entire front with an evident determination to prevent any break-through on the Gustav line which would permit the Allies to begin an early assault on the Hitler line beyond.

Knife-wielding Gurkhas cleaned out the last enemy resistance in the labyrinthine cellars and fortified buildings of San Angelo in the Rapido bridgehead and tanks and infantry advanced slowly south of that town. Enemy pockets were mopped up also in the area of the Rapido and Liri rivers.

The enemy resisted a tank advance from the bridgehead with tanks and artillery but the Allies announced that more tanks were bogged down than knocked out.

U. S. Army engineers building new bridges on the lower Garigliano river despite the shelling of the enemy's long-range guns used diving suits to descend 25 feet under water to check foundations of old bridges wrecked by the Germans.

Postwar Conditions On Trade Stressed By Economy Expert

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, May 15.—Post-war world trade will return to conditions prevalent in the five years prior to 1939, making necessary an international fund to help stabilize currency, asserts Brig. Gen. Leonard P. Ayres, vice-president of the Cleveland Trust Co.

Writing in the company's monthly business bulletin, the economist explained that in those years before the present war European countries imported six dollars worth of merchandise for each five dollars worth exported, while the four other continents exported more than they imported.

"Similar conditions will prevail after peace returns," the retired army officer predicted, "and that is the basic reason why the United Nations are now organizing a great international fund to help stabilize national currencies in the world markets."

Concerning present conditions, Ayres commented: "By all ordinary standards of measurement this is a period of greater material prosperity than we have ever before experienced. It is a strange anomaly that this would also be a period of business hesitation and restricted speculation."

Despite record wartime earnings corporations have not benefited from their prosperity in nearly as large a measure as might be supposed, the economist declared. He listed gross income of all corporations at the all-time high of $250,000,000,000 in 1943, triple the corporate earnings for the bottom years of the depression.

The economist indicated that sharp increases, directly affecting war production, were apparent in the coal industry and in the output of machinery, transportation equipment, lumber, stone, clay and glass products and chemicals.

In the strike against the Brenner pass line hand-picked bombardiers attacked the 3,500-foot-long Aviation viaduct, scoring hits at the northern and southern ends and probably in the middle. It was one of three strikes against the 8-mile Brenner gap through the Alps. There is an alternate route at the viaduct section and its destruction would stop traffic.

Ohio Birth Rate Drops To Record Low In March

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, May 15.—Old Doc Stork, proverbial bringer of babies, paid fewer calls on Ohioans last March than at any time since setting a record during the October following Pearl Harbor.

State Health Director R. H. Markwith said births last March totaled less than 9,400 and had been decreasing at the rate of from 500 to 1,000 monthly since last January. The record October, 1942, total was 13,600.

Dr. Markwith said births numbered 143,994 last year and, although the total was only slightly below the 143,610 for 1942, the decrease had been steady since that date. The 1941 total was 122,456 births.

He attributed the decrease to fewer marriages since the rush to the altar following Pearl Harbor.

may have at least twice as many men under arms, apart from the vast forces of the western Allies. Thus despite Hitler's great strength, he no longer is able to defend adequately the entire perimeter of his European fortress. He should be remembered that he is only encircled by superior land forces, but that he also is ringed by air and by sea. Once the American-British-French armies of invasion are smashing at Hitler's lines in France in cooperation with the Russians on the east and the Allies in Italy and the Balkans, he will be unable to protect all points at once.

Veritas, the
